THREE SCIENTISTS SHARE 2021 NOBEL PHYSICS PRIZE

Their work enhanced our understanding of complex physical systems including physical modelling of the Earth's climate

RELIABLY PREDICTING GLOBAL WARMING

Japanese-American meteorologist Syukuro Manabe (90) and German oceanographer Klaus Hasselmann (89) were awarded for "quantifying variability and reliably predicting global warming". Italian theoretical physicist Giorgio Parisi (73) was awarded the other half "for the discovery of the interplay of disorder and fluctuations in physical systems"

FINDING ORDER IN DISORDER, RANDOMNESS

- The work by Manabe and Hasselmann is about large global forces that shape our daily lives, while Parisi's work centres around subatomic particles and is somewhat esoteric and academic
- Parisi's work is also focused on identifying hidden patterns in disordered complex materials called spin glasses | P18

Indian lab may have helped validate research that fetched the medicine Nobel

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

WHILE Ardem Patapoutian, along with David Julius, on Monday bagged the Nobel Prize in medicine for their seminal work in the discovery of receptors that allow humans to feel temperature and touch, a government lab in India, too, may have helped establish the significance of their discovery.

The Indian Institute of Chemical Biology (IICB) under the CSIR had shown in 2018 that the cells of the immune system may also be critically dependent on these channels to sense physical cues they encounter inside the body.

Dipyaman Ganguly

Patapoutian's discovery of the Piezo channels — a basic fact of biology that was not known before 2010 — in the nervous system was followed up by a number of labs to find the role of these channels in other different bodily functions and how exactly they work.

For instance, David Beeche's lab in University of Leeds discovered in 2014 that the pressure sensing function of the channels also makes them critical in the cardiovascular system, such as to sense changes in blood pressure. Besides, Wolfgang Liedtke's group in Duke University showed in 2014 that these channels play a major role in sensing pressure in the cartilage of our joints.

Back home, a group of IICB scientists led by immunologist Dipyaman Ganguly first showed in 2018 that the cells of the immune system may be critically dependent on these channels for sensing physical cues inside the body. Their paper titled "Cutting Edge: Piezo1 Mechanosensors Optimize Human T Cell Activation", published in The Journal of Immunology, provided the first evidence for the involvement of Piezo mechanosensors in immune regulation.

Another group in China uncovered the structural basis of the channel's working in 2018. All these works confirmed the diverse physiological role and importance of Piezo channels.

"This is their moment and they deserve all the accolades," said Ganguly, adding that his lab may be the only one in this field in India as of now. "We are happy to have contributed in a way that may have helped establish the significance of Patapoutian's work."

Govt to probe water contamination deaths

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE State Government on Tuesday ordered a probe into deaths due to consumption of contaminated water at Makarabbi village of Vijayanagara district over the last two weeks.

"A team of officials, headed by senior IAS officer Munish Moudgil, will inquire into all aspects, including reasons for the contamination of drinking water. They will investigate how sewage water got mixed with drinking water, who is responsible for it, who are the local officials and engineers and who are the senior officials responsible for it," said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai here on Tuesday. The team has to submit the report within five days, said a government order issued later.

Bommai said the State Government has taken the issue seriously, and announced a compensation of ₹3 lakh to the kin of each deceased. At least three people have died after consuming contaminated water in the village, while over 150 people were admitted to hospitals.

Also, the regional commissioner of Kalaburgi has been directed to give a report on the deaths of three people in Afzalpur taluk of the district, the chief minister said. While some claim the deaths are due to monkey fever, others attribute it to contaminated water. Action will be taken after getting the report from the regional commissioner, the chief minister added.

In September, two women of Kamalapur taluk of Kalaburgi district died due to gastroenteritis, while 50 people were admitted to hospitals. There, too, consuming contaminated water was said to be the reason for the deaths.

The government order issued on Tuesday evening stated that there were reports of six deaths in Makarabbi village and there is a need to find the exact reason. Action will be taken against those responsible, it added.

Pressure grows to arrest son of Ajay Mishra; Rahul in Lakhimpur today

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

AMID mounting outrage over the failure to arrest the son of Union Minister of State for Home Affairs Ajay Mishra over the Lakhimpur Kheri violence, a video clip purportedly showing a black SUV mowing down protesting farmers in that village on Sunday, which led to the death of eight persons, including four farmers, added fuel to the fire.

The 29-second clip led to Union home minister Amit Shah summoning Mishra to Delhi, highly placed sources said. Mishra is also expected to brief senior leaders of the Sangh Parivar, highly placed sources said.

For his part, Mishra claimed he would resign if there was any evidence establishing his son Ashish's presence at the spot of violence. He said the driver lost control of the SUV and ran over the farmers as the protesters had stoned the vehicle.

Ashish has been named in an FIR following a police complaint by the farmers. The FIR says: "Ashish Mishra alias Monu, accompanied by his 15-20 aides with loaded weapons and riding 3-4 four wheelers, came rushing to Tikunia in Kheri where the farmers had gathered. Ashish was sitting on the left seat in his Thar Mahindra, which ran over the farmers trampling them while he (Ashish) fired with his weapon. Farmer Gurvinder Singh (22) received a bullet shot and died on the spot." The mowing down mentioned in the FIR matches the sequence of events seen in the video clip.

CAN BE FREED ON PERSONAL BOND

As per sources, the Congress leaders could now be released on personal bonds. Priyanka may not necessarily be presented before a court for release. Under certain CrPC sections, hearing can be done by the magistrate at any place if need be

Tweeting the video, Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi asked Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who was in Lucknow on Tuesday, why Ashish was out of the police net while she was in custody illegally without any arrest warrant.

Later, Priyanka and 10 other Congress leaders were officially arrested by the police in Sitapur, where she was detained on Monday morning. The arrests were to "prevent the commission of cognizable offences", police said. Priyanka spoke to the bereaved farmer families on phone.

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi is expected to lead a five-member delegation to Lakhimpur Kheri on Wednesday.

Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel reached Lucknow airport to join Priyanka, but was not allowed to leave. P9

Changed NEET helps pvt colleges: SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday was scathing in its criticism of the Centre and the National Board of Examinations for changing the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test - Super Speciality (NEET-SS) 2021 pattern, inferring it was done to fill up seats in private colleges.

A bench comprising justices D Y Chandrachud and B V Nagathana said, "You announce the changes in August for the exam in November. When the students come to the court, you change the exams to January. This does not augur well."

"Just because you have authority can it be exercised (like this)? Would the heavens have fallen if it was done from next year? What would happen if a year's time is given to students to prepare? Changing the pattern is in the domain of experts but do it in a way experts do, not in this fashion. Otherwise, it sends a signal that medical profession and medical regulation has also become a business. We hope better sense prevails," the bench remarked.

Justice Chandrachud, who suggested that the changes can be deferred by a year, gave the Centre a day to find a solution. "We will still give you time to put your house in order. We will hear it tomorrow (Wednesday). But if you are showing obduracy, the arms of the law are strong," he warned.

The bench noted that as per the revised pattern, 100% questions for the super specialty entrance test will come from the feeder category of general medicine. Under the earlier pattern, 60% of the questions were from the super specialty course which the student opted and only 40% questions were from the feeder categories.

"The logic seems to be, general medicine is the largest pool, and tap them to fill the seats," Justice Chandrachud said.

Regn renewal of old cars to cost a bomb from April

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

FROM April 2022, vehicle owners will have to pay ₹5,000 for renewal of registration of the cars older than 15 years against the current price of ₹600. When it comes to two-wheelers, registration renewal of old bikes would cost ₹1,000 from April next year compared with ₹300 now. For three-wheelers and quadricycles, it has been increased from ₹600 to ₹2,500.

As for renewal of registration for imported bikes and cars, the new prices effective from next financial year would be ₹10,000 (₹2,500 now) and ₹40,000 (₹5,000 now). A notification issued by the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways on Tuesday stated that renewal of fitness certificate for a bus or truck older than 15 years will attract a fee of ₹12,500 against ₹1,500 at present; while for medium goods or passenger motor vehicle, it would cost ₹10,000.

In case of delay in renewal, an additional fee of ₹300 per month in the case of private vehicles and ₹500 for commercial vehicles shall be levied, the notification said.

Resident, Group D employees quarters

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

THEY work for powerful people and stay just stone's throw away from the chief minister's office Krisha and residence Anugraha. "But we seem so powerless," say Group D employees staying in these quarters, which have leaky roofs, moldy and cracked walls, broken doors and slippery roads.

While ministers and opposition leaders spend crores of rupees of taxpayers' money on upgrading their government-provided houses, buying new furniture and making their accommodation Vaastu compliant, here are these lower-run staffers, working as drivers, cooks and watchmen at the residences of their political bosses, who live with barely minimum facilities.

Around 40 houses of these support and housekeeping staff sit on a prime land of 2.5 acres off Kumara Krupa Road. But the quarters that were built over 60 years ago have not seen any maintenance over the decades. The drainage leaks most of the time and the roads leading to the houses are slippery and dangerous. Baby macaque back with mom after surgery to remove bulb holder

IFFATH FATHIM @ Bengaluru

RESIDENTS of Rajarajeshwari Nagar helped rescue an injured baby macaque, which had swallowed a bulb holder, causing its cheek pouch to open and leading to heavy bleeding. The 40-day-old baby macaque was trapped and treated at a wildlife hospital in the city.

Vaishali Yadav, a resident of RR Nagar, noticed a bulb holder jutting out of the baby macaque's left cheek pouch, that is used for holding food. She reached out to People for Animals (PfA) wildlife hospital in Uttarahalli, which is also involved in animal rescue.

To trap the macaque, the rescue team from PfA set up a cage with food inside it. However, it was a task, as the animal was with a troop of monkeys. After a 13-day effort, the monkey finally got trapped in the cage on Tuesday. The rescue team took the animal to hospital. An examination and X-ray showed a 1.5-inch bulb holder stuck inside the mouth. A 30-minute surgery was conducted and the holder was removed.

"The holder was tightly lodged in the cheek pouch. It had cut through the skin and was hanging out. Things like bulbs, cups, spoons or plastic need to be disposed of properly or animals become the sufferers. As they can't figure out what it is, they try to consume it," said Dr Nawaz Shariff, chief veterinarian of PfA. Dr Shariff also pointed out that had the macaque been left unattended for a few more days, chances of its survival would have been bleak, as the infection would have spread inside the mouth and in the bloodstream. There was a chance of gangrene too. As the residents were alert and continuously followed up, we could save it at the right time. Post surgery, the macaque was given a tetanus shot with antibiotics, and its clinical parameters were checked, which showed normalcy. The baby monkey was united with its mother on the same day.

"We had to release the monkey as it was a baby, and was feeding on mother's milk. Keeping it in hospital for a few more days would break immunity, and without mother's milk, it could even get diarrhoea. We took a call and went back to the same place and saw the same troop there, where we released it safely," added Dr Shariff.

Meanwhile, the rescue team is following up on the condition of the monkey. Veterinarians stated that the monkey would fully recover in a span of four days.

Palike to survey houses along valley buffer zone

Urban DC, KSPCB already on the job; it's a waste of time and money, say officials

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

ON noticing that a building in the area was slightly tilted, Rajarajeshwari Nagar Joint Commissioner Nagaraju Siddappa ordered another survey on structures, residential and commercial complexes along the Vrishabhavathi valley.

The survey of buildings will be taken up by West and RR Nagar zones, and will be parallel to ongoing surveys by the revenue department, Bengaluru Urban DC office and Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB).

A senior revenue department official said, "Surveys are almost never completed, or the reports are not submitted to the departments concerned. It is a wasteful exercise and expenditure. This is a classic example of lack of coordination." He added that most of the time, surveys are announced just to appease politicians, a group of people or even the media. "After that, surveys are abandoned, and officials cite shortage of staff or funds, or even the pandemic as the reason," he claimed.

JC Siddappa said, "We are conducting the survey to ascertain how many buildings are located on the buffer zone of Vrishabhavathi valley and how many are encroaching the stormwater drains." He added that they have now decided to issue notices to all those who have encroached these spaces.

In the case of a house in RR Nagar Zone, Nagaraju said the owner has been asked to vacate the property and will be given three days to either demolish the property or pay the BBMP for demolition.

The KSPCB has undertaken a survey along the valley to check on pollutants entering the water body, the inlets and outlets of the valley, the entry of industrial effluents and domestic sewage. The district administration is checking for encroachments across all water bodies in its jurisdiction, and areas outside BBMP limits are also being surveyed.

63 control rooms set up to tackle rain

ENS @Bengaluru

BRUHAT Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta on Tuesday said 63 control rooms at the subdivision level have been set up to address rain and flood related damage and will be operational till October-end.

Briefing the media on rain-related damage and the civic body's preparedness, Gupta said that of the 750 km drain network, construction of retaining walls along half the length has been completed. Work on the rest is happening at a gradual pace based on the availability of finances.

To ensure that there is no more flooding in future, joint commissioners and engineers have been directed to undertake a survey of all vulnerable places and low-lying areas and make all preparations. Gupta also said that a disaster management plan has been prepared. A survey has also been taken up on the extent of rain damage and what needs to be done, he added.

CHIEF MINISTER'S VISION

Tech studies in high school

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hubballi

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday rolled out a plan on the introduction of technological studies in high school and for pre-graduate learning. He asked IT, BT and Science & Technology Minister C N Ashwath Narayan to explore the possibility of developing some high schools into technology high schools, and upgrade polytechnics with technology, machinery and laboratories.

Addressing a summit virtually on 'Innovation and Impact @ Hubballi' held under the Beyond Bengaluru programme, Bommai said the introduction of studies on technology at the high school level was necessary to ignite the minds of children. He suggested improving Atal Tinkering Labs with new technologies such as Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning, and said it would be good if done in small capsules.

CoE to come up at Hubballi

HUBBALLI: IT, BT, Science and Technology, and Higher Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan announced an upcoming Centre of Excellence (CoE) for Artificial Intelligence and Data Engineering at Hubballi soon, as part of the Karnataka Digital Economy Mission

Noting that the first technical high school was started in Hubballi in the 1960s, but the concept is now neglected, Bommai stressed on teaching technology at the high school level. "Early learning of technology will lead to innovation," he said, adding that the capacity to absorb things was higher in small children rather than in grown-ups.

Suggesting that Ashwath Narayan upgrade polytechnic institutes on the line of ITIs, Bommai said if there is upgradation of technology, machinery and labs at the polytechnic level, the entire ecosystem would change. Industries will get trained human resource, apart from those trained in engineering institutions, he said.

'Set up anchor industry'

Bommai pointed out that North Karnataka has a large pool of talent, be it in IT, BT, services, manufacturing or other sectors, but they don't got opportunities locally. To create opportunities, industries should come forward with innovations.

Eggs in midday meals from Dec in 7 dists

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@ Bengaluru

THE plan to include eggs as part of midday meals in schools will start from December in seven districts. A team of education department officials will set out for Tamil Nadu on Thursday to learn about the implementation.

The state government has planned a 46-day an-egg-a-day study from December-February. They will distribute eggs among 14,44,322 children of Classes 1-8 from seven districts, namely Yadgir, Raichur, Bidar, Ballari, Kalaburagi, Koppal and Vijayapura, with high prevalence of malnutrition including anaemia.

"We will be providing eggs to seven districts for 46 days from December to February," G Narayana Gowda, Joint Director, Midday meals scheme, told The New Indian Express. An expenditure of Rs 39.53 crore will be borne by the central government under its Flexi-fund component.

Meanwhile, the department is working out vegetarian alternatives for eggs. Gowda said the product will be finalised by October 7, and it will most likely be milk-based, infused with millets.

Cops educate vendors to shun megaphones

BENGALURU: The East Division police on Tuesday conducted a special drive and asked street vendors not to use megaphones, making them aware of the ill-effects of the loudspeaker. The drive was conducted within the jurisdiction of Pulikeshinagar police station, between 6.30am and 8.30am. It was conducted following complaints from the public that noise from megaphones was causing inconvenience to people. The issue was also raised during the 'Maasika Janasamparka Divasa' where City Police Commissioner Kamal Pant interacts with citizens. "Around 15 vendors who were found using megaphones were asked not to use them. Their amplifiers were seized and they were warned of legal action if found using loudspeakers again," the police said.

06th October : There's still more news coming through about the possibility of life on Mars, what with more space probes planned. We're not expecting to discover actual animals, but very small microbes have probably survived beneath the planet's surface, perhaps preserved in deep water or ice. We know that Mars used to have oceans, but we don't know what happened to them!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Little by little, you are regaining the initiative that you lost to partners some time ago. For the remainder of the week you will have things your own way, but see to it that friends share in your good fortune. You will soon have to make a break with a past tie or commitment, but time is still on your side.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You must continue to focus on financial considerations, if only because you have responsibilities to fulfil and duties to complete. An intriguing relationship between Venus and Uranus will ensure an unusual result. And they will also bring an unexpected twist in a friendship.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
In spite of one or two difficulties, combined with opposition from some partners, events definitely seem to be moving in your direction. Keep your eye firmly on the long-term picture, and don't let short-term distractions push you off course, especially as you're in the right!

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
The Moon in one of the most potent regions of your chart definitely indicates busy times ahead, just when you were looking forward to a break. A great deal seems to be going on behind the scenes, so you'll have to look under a few stones to get to the truth.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Life may be demanding and hectic but never dull. Today's Lunar pattern brings classic indications that all your Leonine qualities - courage, generosity and creativity - will be allowed to flourish. People who mix with you will be fortunate indeed!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
There doesn't seem to be any way that you can get plans or projects off the ground without the full and unswerving support of partners and colleagues. People in positions of authority will be able to help but, for your part, you must be prepared to follow their advice.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Since Venus is in a delicate relationship with Uranus, you may expect events to work out favourably, even if not in the way that you hoped. It's time to expect a pleasant surprise, although when, where, and how it is to come, is naturally to be a secret for now!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Venus will oblige you to be more sociable over the coming weeks. You will have to abandon an elitist attitude which has made it difficult to get on with people who may be of help in the future. You will be able to get in touch with somebody from whom you've been separated, next week, by the way.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Stop making finances a bone of contention. Part of the trouble seems to be caused by your underlying lack of confidence in your economic security. Until this is dealt with, difficulties will continue. Think clearly, get the facts straight and you'll see just how close you are to success.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
At certain times you must put your own interests behind those of other people, including those who are not exactly close friends. Such selflessness now will stand you in good stead in the future. There does seem to be a great deal to gain from a new friendship, but you might have to make the first move.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You may be on the ball, but others still have the ability to make life awkward for you. Perhaps an apology from you for past offence you have given, however unintentionally, will clear the air. A cash crisis should dissolve before your eyes, but only if you stick to your course.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Even though you are supposed to be even-tempered, you can be surprisingly tetchy when the mood takes you, or when things don't go your way. Don't come down hard on partners who are not to blame. They probably need your support more than your censure.

Only 500 can attend Dasara Jamboo Savari

Guidelines issued for low-key Nada Habba

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government, which decided to celebrate the world-famous Mysuru Dasara on a low scale, has restricted the procession, known as Jamboo Savaari, to not more than 500 people. It will be held on Vijayadashmi inside the Palace premises.

The latest detailed guidelines for Mysuru Dasara, issued by the Chief Secretary, list that only 100 visitors can attend the inaugural programme atop Chamundi Hill, which will be attended by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and former Union minister SM Krishna, who is the chief guest. The evening cultural programme at the Palace premises, that will be held on all days during Dasara, should not have more than 500 people. The same number is applicable for Jumbo Savari and torchlight parade.

The cultural programmes cannot be held for more than two hours. Artists, participants and police personnel have to wear masks. However, people across the globe can watch the virtual Dasara.

The chief secretary issued an order stating that Nada Habba Dasara will be celebrated from October 7 to 15. Due to Covid, it will be a simple Dasara with all rituals this year. Though 500 people are allowed at Mysuru Dasara, the number cannot exceed 400 for Dasara celebrations in other parts of the state.

The guidelines also mandate Mysuru Police to check that all people wear masks, wherever there are crowds. People taking part in Dasara celebrations, including officials, police and media, have to undergo RT-PCR test after October 4, and have to be vaccinated with at least one dose.

Suspected brain fever outbreak

Gadag: Residents of Naregal town in Gadag district have a new worry, other than Covid: brain fever. For the past few days, some residents of Bulldozer Nagar and surrounding areas have been suffering from sudden fever and body ache. Those who went to hospital, suspecting Covid, were surprised to know that they were suffering from brain fever. With cases increasing since Monday, the health department formed a Rapid Response Team to conduct checks on each resident and treat them. ENS

DISABILITY ID CARD REMAINS EVASIVE FOR THE CHALLENGED

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru

"I need help. I can't speak. I can only chat with you on WhatsApp or email. Please help me," read the social media post by Nitish G C, a 29-year-old with cerebral palsy. The Bengalurean is running from one hospital to another to get his Unique Disability ID card for a month, but in vain.

He said that last week, he went to KC General Hospital in Malleswaram, as he is a resident of the area, and waited for the doctor from 9.30am to around 12 noon, after which the doctor asked him to return on Saturday.

"I then went to Indira Gandhi Institute of Child Health, and no one was ready to guide me properly. I didn't know where to go. After roaming around the hospital, someone told me to change my application to Kannada as it was in Hindi and English, and asked me to come the next day," he said.

He later went to Nimhans where they told him it was already 2pm, and time to shut the counter. Nitish says the plight of many like him would not improve if doctors and staff at these institutes behave in this way.

Nitish, who studied till Class 7, is an independent graphic designer. He says, "I am a very independent person. I do my work alone. But it really hurts and I feel helpless when they even refuse to talk to me after knowing I have CP and can't communicate properly."

The UDID card is given to persons with disabilities so they dont have to maintain and carry multiple copies of documents, as the card captures all necessary details, which can be decoded with the help of a reader. It is the single document of identification, verification of the disabled for availing various benefits in future, and also helps track progress of the beneficiary at all levels of implementation - from village, block, district, state to national level.

"The card is beneficial but accessing the card is very difficult. What about other disabled people who are dependent and cannot manage to go physically to hospitals?" Nitish asks.

Lower rung police personnel can hope for quicker promotions

Cabinet decides to reduce minimum service requirement in a rank from five to four years

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai arrives for the cabinet meeting at Vidhana Soudha in Bengaluru on Tuesday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TO fast-track promotions among the lower ranks in the Police Department, the State Government has decided to reduce from five to four years the minimum number of years required to be considered for promotion.

Briefing media persons after the cabinet meeting on Tuesday, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy said the cabinet decision will apply to promotions up to the rank of Police Sub-Inspector (PSI), and the move will help proceed with promotions that were held up.

In the normal course, a minimum of eight years of experience in a particular rank is required to be considered for promotion. But, if eligible candidates are not available, those with five years of experience are also being considered. This has now been reduced to four years, the minister explained.

The cabinet took the decision based on a proposal submitted by the Home Department on promotions of Assistant Sub-Inspectors (ASI). Home Minister Araga Jnanendra said the decision will help Assistant Sub-Inspectors get promotion to the next rank.

The cabinet also approved the upgradation of the Digital UHF radio communication network in the Police Department under the police modernisation project. A total of Rs 14.65 crore has been sanctioned for this and the State Government will pitch in with Rs 9 crore while the remaining will be borne by the Centre.

The government has also decided to increase financial assistance provided to senior citizens under its 'Sandhya Suraksha' scheme by Rs 200.

Madhuswamy said the cabinet decided to increase the monthly old-age pension for those above 60 years of age from Rs 600 to Rs 800 and for those above 65 years of age from Rs 1,000 to Rs 1,200. It will be an additional burden of Rs 207 crore on the exchequer. "It will benefit around 34 lakh beneficiaries," he said.

The cabinet also approved a master plan for the Khar Land scheme in Uttara Kannada district. The Minor Irrigation Department had a budgetary provision of Rs 1,500 crore and provision of Rs 300 crore was made for this year.

Madhuswamy said the project aims to prevent surge of saltwater from the sea to rivers due to high tides and floods. Every year, the surge was around 1.5 km and the project aims to prevent that salinity so that freshwater can be used for agriculture, prawn culture and to provide drinking water. It can also be stored for two to three months, the minister said.

In the budget, the government had announced the project and proposed the construction of flap gates under the scheme, with an outlay of Rs 300 crore.

Cabinet panel to look into HC order on Datta Peeta

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE State Cabinet on Tuesday decided to form a cabinet subcommittee over the future course of action to be taken by the State Government in the wake of a recent court order on the Datta Peeta issue.

Speaking to media persons, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister JC Madhuswamy said, "The sub-committee has been formed to look into how the government has to proceed after the court order. Whether we should again approach the High court to file an affidavit or not? It will discuss the pros and cons of the court verdict and how the government has to proceed with it."

The court has recently ordered the government to appoint a Hindu priest at Datta Peeta in Chikmagalur district.

Madhuswamy said a cabinet sub-committee has also been formed to recommend if the sugar factory in Mandya should be given to a private firm to run its operations, or the government should operate it.

As decided in the cabinet on August 19, the government on Tuesday issued notifications on formation of cabinet subcommittees on various subjects. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai will head sub-committees on implementation of Krishna, Mahadayi and Cauvery irrigation projects. Forest Minister Umesh Katti will head a sub-committee on fixing support prices for agriculture and horticulture crops and Transport Minister B Sriramulu will head a sub-committee on implementation of orders issued for Kalyan Karnataka region.

Cong announces its picks for Sindagi, Hanagal bypolls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Congress on Tuesday announced its candidates — Ashok Managuli for Sindagi and Srinivas Mane for the Hanagal bypolls — soon after party acting president Sonia Gandhi met Karnataka CLP leader Siddaramaiah in Delhi. State party president D K Shivakumar had presented his choices when he was in Delhi a few days ago.

Congress sources said while Ashok Managuli, son of former JDS MLA M C Managuli, was a serious claimant for the ticket from Sindagi, there were two aspirants for the Hanagal seat — MLC Srinivas Mane, who contested from the seat in 2018 and lost to C M Udasi, and Manohar Tahsildar who has served as MLA for four terms. While Srinivas Mane staked claim on the ground that he lost in 2018 by about 6,000 votes, Manohar Talsildar had claimed the ticket as he had represented the constituency for four terms. However, both Siddaramaiah and Shivakumar backed the candidature of Srinivas Mane whose term as MLC expires on January 5.

Sack MoS: Siddu

Siddaramaiah said that the killing of four farmers in Lakhimpur Kheri in Uttar Pradesh reminded him of the Jallianwala Bagh massacre and demanded an apology from Prime Minister Narendra Modi over the incident. He demanded that Union Minister of State for Home Ajay Mishra be dismissed and his son arrested.

Siddaramaiah, who spoke to the media after emerging out of the meeting with Sonia Gandhi, said they discussed the upcoming bypolls and other party matters. "I was called for a meeting. I met Sonia Gandhi and we discussed the by-elections and organisational issues," he said.

Asked if the party was considering a larger role for him at the national level, Siddaramaiah emphatically denied it. "Except for Karnataka politics, no national politics was discussed," he said and asserted that his interest lies in state politics. He added that he had been offered the post of AICC General Secretary by former party chief Rahul Gandhi which he had declined and recalled that he resigned as member of the Congress Working Committee and clarified that he has no interest in national politics.

Siddaramaiah also said there was no discussion with the party president on any reshuffle in the party's state unit. "It was not discussed with Sonia Gandhi. I have given a list to Randeep Singh Surjewala. He has said that he will discuss the issue of revamping the state party unit with me," he added.

Party sources confirmed that the Congress is going for a major revamp and the names are likely to be finalised before Ayudha Puja. When asked about it, Siddaramaiah said, "We won't discuss it in public."

AHINDA a vote bank for Siddu: Kateel

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayapura

BJP workers welcome party state president Nalin Kumar Kateel in Vijayapura on Tuesday

BJP state president Nalin Kumar Kateel on Tuesday slammed the Opposition leader in the Assembly, Siddaramaiah, accusing him of using the AHINDA (Kannada acronym for minorities, backward classes and dalits) grouping to further his political goals, but not to raise voice for them.

"The BJP does not believe in using backward communities as a vote bank, but in working for their development," he said in his address to party workers after inaugurating a one-day state-level OBC party workers' committee meeting here.

"There are many leaders in the Congress, such as Siddaramaiah, who floated the AHINDA concept only to use the communities for political benefit. As soon as they achieved their goal, they deserted these communities that supported them in their cause," Kateel taunted.

He said the BJP government has been working for the welfare of all backward communities as it believes in taking all sections of society along. The Central Government, led by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, has set a record by inducting 27 MPs from the OBC category in the Union Cabinet. "I can say with confidence that no party in the past accorded so much political representation in the government to OBCs. PM Modi, who also comes from a backward class community, has taken India to the next level at the global stage," added Kateel.

Taking a dig at the Congress, Kateel said the party is like a sinking ship. "It is riddled with internal differences as there are two power centers — Siddaramaiah and D K Shivakumar. Even after nearly two years of taking charge as KPCC chief, Shivakumar is yet to form a full-fledged working committee. This shows at what pace the grand old party is working in the state," he said.

Lashing out at Siddaramaiah for not releasing the caste census report during his tenure as CM, Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Minister K S Eshwarappa said Congress leaders want to display that they are with the backward classes. "Siddaramaiah didn't even utter a word about the caste census in the recently held Assembly session. However, based on the report of Backward Classes Commission, the BJP government will take further decision on the matter," he said.

State seeks ₹10k cr from Centre for urban infra

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

URBAN Development Minister B A (Byrathi) Basavaraj on Tuesday said that he had presented a request seeking Rs 10,000 crore for creating better urban infrastructure in Karnataka's smaller towns. The minister is participating in the three-day urban conclave in Lucknow which was inaugurated by Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh and Union Urban Affairs Minister Hardeep Singh Puri also participated.

Speaking to TNIE, Byrathi Basavraj said he had tried to get an appointment with the PM, but owing to the latter's tight schedule, he could not get time exclusively with Modi. However, he communicated the state's request to the PMO and met Union minister Hardeep Singh Puri where he put forth the request for a large project that will support Karnataka's 75 towns with underground drainage and 60 towns with drinking water. "The Union minister responded positively to the request," he claimed.

In a letter, minister Basavaraj said these infrastructure developments are important to ensure that the population from smaller towns do not move into Bengaluru, further congesting the city. He said the state government is seeking to improve tier-2 and tier-3 cities and the other urban centres. "Drinking water and UGD have been taken up under Karnataka Urban Water Supply and Drainage Board. The 15th Finance Commission has identified drinking water and sanitation as national priority. The drinking water project to provide a network of pipes, pumps and storage points, will require about Rs 4,000 crore and the UGD lines, which will rid the towns of toilet pits, will cost about Rs 6,000 crore, he noted.

Children's deaths raise worry in Afzalpur village

RAMKRISHNA BADSESHI
@ Kalaburagi

A sense of anxiety has enveloped Aanur village in Afzalpur taluk after three girls, all aged under 15, died over the last two months due to different diseases. Many children are still suffering from fever.

According to reports, 11-year-old girl Anushri died due to a rare disease, Guillain-Barre Syndrome (GBS), a condition in which the immune system attacks the nerves. The condition may be triggered by an acute bacterial or viral infection. Symptoms include weakness and tingling in the feet and legs that spread to the upper body. Sources said Anushri succumbed to the disease on August 6.

Just 23 days later, on August 29, Chaitra Basavaraj Phulari (12) of the same village died at Afzalpur where she had been taken for treatment. Her body was brought to Aanur for the last rites. Officials of the health department could not establish the cause of death as the parents had left the village.

On September 27, Sangamma Bhimaraya (7) died due to Sepsis (a serious condition resulting from the presence of harmful microorganisms in the blood or other tissues and the body's response to their presence). Over the last two months, several villagers, especially children, have suffered from viral fever.

Speaking to TNIE, Kalaburagi District Health Officer Dr Sharanabasappa Ganajalkhed said that blood samples of 23 children from Aanur village were tested in the last 15 days, of which 10 were found with chikungunya. A fever clinic has been opened in the village and a team of doctors is camping there. Two rounds of fogging has also been done, he said, while noting that the village lacks proper sanitation.

Just a few days ago, two women died due to gastro-enteritis in Dastapur village of Kamalapur taluk and over 50 people of the village were treated for GE.

3 die of water contamination, temporary hospital set up

HOSAPETE: In the wake of three people losing their lives after consuming contaminated water at Makarabbi village in Hoovina Hadagali taluk, Vijayanagara district, a temporary hospital has been set up in the village after top officials visited the district on Tuesday. On Tuesday, there were reports of another death, but the exact cause is yet to be confirmed. On the directive of the Deputy Commissioner, District Health Officer Dr Janardhan H L and Superintendent of Police K Arun visited the village and urged the residents not to panic, and advised them to follow safety guidelines like drinking boiled and cooled water. "Villagers are in panic due to the deaths in the last 15 days. On Tuesday, one person died in Gadag and we are waiting for confirmation of the cause. Of the over 150 people who were hospitalised, most have been cured," Dr Janardhan said. ENS

'DASHBOARD WILL REFLECT PERFORMANCE'

Nodal officers and heads of departments should take a special interest in making the digital platform a success, he said. It will reflect the performance of departments, which have to reach the targets announced in the budget. He urged officials to give importance to planning and deliver the benefits of projects to the last person in society. "Effective implementation will bring people closer to the system and make them feel that there is someone looking after them. We should strive to achieve that," he said.

'Close to powerhouses, yet powerless'

THE New Indian Express team, which visited the place, found that many houses have either the tile or asbestos sheet roof, while only a few have the concrete roof. Almost all the houses leak when it rains and have fungus and plants growing all over the walls. Heavy water seepage and cracks can be seen in the structures. "When it rains, we keep buckets and vessels inside the house," said a resident, requesting anonymity.

The sewage lines laid years ago are chocked and the drain keeps overflowing. All these issues are because of lack of maintenance, the residents complained. "We are close to the powerhouses and work closely with powerful people, but we are so powerless," said another resident.

They do get regular water and power supply. But apart from that, the other basic amenities are all pathetic, he complained.

When the Congress government headed by Siddaramaiah proposed to build the Constitution Club at Balabrooie Guesthouse, there were protests. The government had then considered locating the club at this 2.5-acre plot, where the Group D employees stay. But recently, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai again said that the Club will come up at Balabrooie Guesthouse, triggering protests from environmentalists.

Boy injured after dad fires at employees

BULLET PIERCES HIS HEAD

The X-ray showed that the bullet had pierced the head of 16-year-old Sudheendra Prabhu. He is injured near the left eye and head, and is being treated at a private hospital. The shots were fired from a 0.32 bore Indian-made pistol.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Mangaluru

A 16-year-old boy sustained serious injuries in his head and face after his father's licensed pistol misfired at Morgan's Gate in Mangaluru South police limits on Tuesday.

The injured, Sudheendra Prabhu, is the son of Rajesh Prabhu -- owner of Vaishnavi Express Cargo Pvt Ltd located in the busy commercial area in Morgan's Gate. City Police Commissioner N Shashikumar, who visited the spot, said the incident occurred around 3.30 pm following an argument over wages between Rajesh Prabhu and two others -- Chandru and Ashraf, who work as the driver and cleaner of a luggage carrier vehicle. After finishing a trip, the two demanded Rs 4,000 as the wage from Rajesh's wife Shanthala, who was in the office at that time.

When they started shouting for the money, Shanthala called her husband and son, who were at their house nearby. Rajesh rushed to the office with the 0.32-bore Indian-made pistol. In the heat of an argument, Sudheendra allegedly slapped the driver and cleaner which led to a commotion. Then, Rajesh took out his pistol and fired two rounds, apparently to scare away the two workers. But one of the bullets accidentally hit his son, injuring him near the left eye and head. Two empty bullet cases were found at the spot, said the commissioner.

IAF chief denies two-finger test charge

Levelling allegation of rape, woman officer says she was subjected to banned test, action against guilty after inquiry

> The two-finger test that you have mentioned is misreported. I can confirm to you that this test was not done
>
> VR Chaudhari, Air Force Chief Marshal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi/Chennai

INDIAN Air Force chief Air Chief Marshal VR Chaudhari on Tuesday denied allegations made by a female IAF officer that she was subjected to the banned two-finger test in connection with the rape charges she levelled at a fellow officer.

Speaking to the press in New Delhi, Chaudhari said, "Let me assure you that the Air Force law is very strict on any such incidents. The two-finger test that you have mentioned is misreported. I can confirm to you that this test was not done and we are well aware of the rules." Disciplinary action will be taken based on report of inquiry, he added. The National Commission for Women had also raised the issue with the IAF, expressing its disappointment, and had strongly condemned the action of IAF doctors who allegedly conducted the test. It called the alleged action a violation of the Supreme Court's order and the right to privacy and dignity of the victim.

The 28-year-old officer, who was pursuing a course at the Air Force Administrative College in Coimbatore, had lodged a complaint at an All Women Police Station on September 20 stating that Flight Lieutenant Amitesh Harmukh had sexually assaulted her, after which he was arrested. Later, a Mahila court ordered that the case be handed over to the IAF for court-martial proceedings.

CONMAN'S ARREST

Can crime branch carry out fair probe, Kerala HC asks DGP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

THE Kerala High Court on Tuesday asked the state police chief whether he trusts the crime branch to carry out a proper investigation into the financial fraud involving conman Monson Mavunkal when senior police officers themselves allegedly had links with him.

The court also asked why the police officers who had visited his house didn't notice the valuables including the elephants tusks and initiated a probe.

"Why did the police set up a beat box in front of Monson's house? The police force was parading in and out of his residence. Instead of taking action against him, why was he given protection?" it asked.

Justice Devan Ramachandran directed the state police chief to file an affidavit explaining those details, while considering a petition filed by E V Ajith, former driver of Monson, alleging police harassment.

The court also asked the state police chief when police officers had seen valuable articles in his custody, on what basis police protection was given to Monson. In fact, instead of taking action against Monson, the police gave him protection.

The court also pointed out that reports suggested that he had in his custody items nobody had even heard of. How then the police officers who visited him did not find this out.

The court asked the state police chief to inform the court how and why no suspicion was raised against Monson though it was stated that his house was under police protection when articles such as elephants tusks (which are now stated to be not genuine) were in his possession.

The court also asked whether the crime branch could conduct a proper investigation into the cases against Monson when allegations were flying thick and fast against the police officers of all ranks. Even the people from outside the country were reportedly involved.

NIA names 6 from TN for trafficking Lankans

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE National Investigation Agency (NIA) on Tuesday filed a chargesheet against six accused persons from Tamil Nadu for their alleged involvement in an organised international human trafficking racket of 38 Sri Lankan nationals.

The victims were lured on the pretext of getting jobs in Canada, but were instead forcefully confined in Karnataka and Tamil Nadu.

The chargesheet was filed before the NIA Special Court in Bengaluru against Dhinakaran alias Ayya, Kasi Viswanathan, Rasool, Satham Ushen alias Saddam Hussain, Abdul Muheetu, and Socrates, under Sections 343, 344, 370(3), and 120B of the Indian Penal Code (IPC).

The Mangaluru South police station registered an FIR on June 10 this year against 25 Sri Lankans under Sections 120B, 370, 420 of IPC, Section 14 of the Foreigners' Act, and Section 12(1A) of the Passports Act, 1967, for allegedly staying in a lodge without valid documents. During police raids, 13 more Sri Lankans were apprehended.

"The investigation established that 38 Sri Lankans were trafficked to India in four batches this year, between February 27 and April 10. The charge sheeted persons, as part of the larger conspiracy with Sri Lankan suspects/ accused persons, had trafficked and confined the Sri Lankans at various places in Tamil Nadu and Karnataka without any contact with their family members, with the objective to misguide their families that they were on board a ship to Canada," the NIA stated.

"The 38 trafficked Sri Lankans were promised that they would be sent to Canada and were charged a fee ranging between Rs 3.5 lakh and Rs 10 lakh Sri Lankan Rupees, worth around Rs 1.83 crore by an absconding accused and a Sri Lankan national, Easan, and his associates in the island country and India," added the Central agency.

Can't bear daughter's dowry torture, man says before ending life

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Malappuram

A 20-year-old woman and her family in Malappuram have alleged that the brutal domestic violence she had to suffer from her husband demanding more dowry for over a year drove her father to end his life on September 23. She said she was even tied to a cot in her husband's house to restrict her movement.

The family on Tuesday handed over a copy of a video recorded by 46-year-old Moosakutty of Mampad just before his death to Nilambur police. In the video, he is heard saying he was forced to take the extreme step since he was not able to bear the thought of the pain being suffered by his daughter at the hands of her husband Abdul Hameed, 28, of Othayi.

Moosakutty was found hanging in a rubber plantation that comes under Wandoor police station limits. Before committing suicide, he shot a video on his mobile phone. In the video, the rubber tapping worker, who earned only a meagre income daily, expresses concern that his son-in-law has been constantly demanding gold from him to keep his daughter with him.

IN THE HC

Family members of Moosakutty later retrieved the video from the phone and handed a copy to Nilambur police who are investigating a dowry harassment complaint filed by Hiba on Sunday. On September 28, Hiba's brother Ashraful Rilshad had lodged a complaint with Wandoor police raising suspicion that Abdul Hameed's dowry harassment was behind his father's suicide.

Abdul Hameed married Hiba on January 12, 2020. Ashraful, 23, told TNIE, "During the marriage, we gave him 18 sovereigns of gold as a present. After the marriage, he demanded some more gold. Then, we gave him six more sovereigns, which belonged to my mother. Later, he told us, we will have to find a new husband for Hiba in that case."

Junior docs, interns to protest for Covid allowance tomorrow

Bengaluru: Junior resident doctors and interns across Karnataka will boycott elective services from 9am to 4pm on Thursday, by assembling in their colleges in solidarity with the Karnataka Association of Resident Doctors (KARD). However, emergency, ICU, and Covid-19 services will not be affected by the strike. Their main demands are to restructure the fees according to the 2018-2019 academic year, immediately sanction funds for the promised Covid-19 risk allowance, and ensure timely payments of stipends to post MBBS juniors and interns. In a statement on Tuesday, KARD said that although the government and public have glorified them as Covid warriors, they have, in reality, paid the government a hefty sum of money to do this thankless job. A statement on Tuesday, signed by Dr Namratha C, president of KARD said, "It's been months since the Covid-19 allowance was announced and it still hasn't reached our pockets. Umpteen representations were made to the government to waive fees for the year 2021-22 since last year was solely spent on Covid care, with near to nil academics and clinical exposure." ENS

Lokayukta orders probe into payment of lesser wages to MGNREGA workers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

FOR the second day in a row, the Karnataka Lokayukta referred to a news report by The New Indian Express, "Paid less wages, allege MGNREGA workers", published on October 1, to order suo motu proceedings. The Lokayukta termed the decision to pay lesser wages to MGNREGA workers "maladministration".

"The object of the Karnataka Lokayukta Act is to redress the grievance of the public as a consequence of maladministration in the State Administration. The less payment of wages to the workers falls within the meaning of 'maladministration' under Section 2(10) of the Act and the hardship or injustice caused to the workers on account of payment of less wages is required to be redressed," Lokayukta Justice P Vishwanatha Shetty said in the order.

The New Indian Express reported that workers employed under the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Scheme (MGNREGS) at Kadoli village near Belagavi were paid wages of a meagre Rs 100 as against Rs 289 per day, fixed by the government. The workers protested in front of the Gram Panchayat office on September 30, demanding payment of actual wages.

On Monday, the Lokayukta had initiated suo motu proceedings based on the news report, "Oily discharge from Mangaluru refinery polluting waterbodies", published in The New Indian Express on October 1, 2021.

EXPRESS IMPACT

Treating the news report on MGNREGA as the source material to initiate suo motu proceedings, Justice Shetty directed his office to implead the deputy commissioner of Belagavi district, chief executive officer of zilla panchayat, Belagavi, executive officer of taluk panchayat, and PDO and president of Kadoli Gram Panchayat, Belagavi, as respondents and issue notices to them.

He directed them to examine the issues raised in the report, redress the grievances of workers and submit a report in three weeks. He ordered the superintendent of police, Lokayukta, Belagavi, to investigate the role of officials and submit a report on November 9, 2021, the next date of hearing.

He noted that the news report story indicates maladministration on the part of concerned authorities that requires investigation to fix the responsibility on the officials, in charge of executing works under MGNREGA.

"No doubt, the story only highlights the less payment of wages to the workers, whose services are taken by the Kadoli GP. May be similar things are happening in a few of the villages in Belagavi district. The investigation would be in the interest of justice and to protect the rights of the uncared section of society, to whose benefit MGNREGS is introduced. The DC and CEO of ZP are directed to secure the details of payments made with reference to each panchayat in Belagavi district with regard to the actual work executed, payments made and details of the names and addresses of workers to whom the payments are made," the Lokayukta said in the order.

GET OUR MONEY BACK! SWIFT ACTION NEEDED ON THE PANDORA PAPERS

The problem is not that some people are getting rich. It is that people are becoming rich by evading tax, and transferring and parking ill-gotten gains in tax havens abroad. The latest Pandora Papers expose by the International Consortium of Investigative Journalists (ICIJ)—a network of over 600 journalists who have trawled millions of documents sourced from 117 countries—showed how a self-perpetuating elite made up of politicians and businessmen have used the anonymity of shell companies and offshore tax havens to conceal their assets. Among Indians, the findings include Anil Ambani, who declared bankruptcy in a UK court but holds unaccounted assets in 18 front companies, and Nirav Modi's sister, who parked money in a trust just a month before he fled India.

At the international level, 35 current and former political leaders and over 300 top public officials have been creaming off their economies. For instance, the King of Jordan secretly splurged £70 million on UK and US properties, while Russian President Vladimir Putin acquired secret assets in Monaco. In a remarkable inquiry to pierce the corporate veil, the Pandora Papers show how those who are supposed to be in debt to Indian banks for thousands of crores of rupees have hidden their assets by acquiring obscure companies abroad that in turn own massive assets.

These are not just rogue defaulters. It is now an international system that knits together the rich with compliant banks, law firms and accounting wizards who work together to evade the law. The IMF estimates the use of tax havens has cost governments worldwide up to $600 billion in lost taxes each year. It is commendable that the Union government has immediately ordered a multi-agency probe. But such probes have been ordered in the past too, with the promise of bringing back the laundered money to Indian shores. There have been the Panama Papers and the Paradise Papers in the past, and there have been SITs set up. But there has been little closure. If we don't see swift action soon, cynicism about the government's intent will begin to set in.

MORE NEEDS TO BE DONE FOR WOMEN'S CRICKET

Pink ball, day-and-night Test and two well-matched sides are perfect ingredients for a thriller. Social media may not be the best indicator, but the interest the one-off Test between the Indian and Australian women at Gold Coast generated shows that the game is followed and cherished. If not for rain interruptions, the match could have had a result. Perhaps it's time the Indian cricket board and the other big members—Australia and England—do more for women's cricket, especially the longer format. Though they have not played many, Australia and England have at least taken part in more Tests than India. The Indian women last played a Test at home in 2014. That shows how neglected the format has been. While we boast of the Ranji Trophy, one of the premier longer-format domestic tournaments for men, we don't have any such event in women's cricket. It has to be noted that both the ECB and Cricket Australia have their own domestic T20 versions of the IPL for women but the BCCI does not.

All cricket boards should look into more Test matches for women. And if they are serious about equality, having the decision review system (DRS) in these Tests too is one way to go. They should also consider warm-up matches.

The ODIs between India and Australia too produced a lot of drama. The second match went to the last delivery and just when everyone thought India had won, an above-the-waist ball landed it in the Aussies' favour. India managing to halt Australia's 26-match winning streak was the high point.

Even when women play, whether it is ODIs or T20 internationals, they mostly do so during the day. The Australia tour showed how playing under lights brought more crowds to the stadiums and increased the buzz on television. Day-and-night cricket always sells and the Indian cricket body should look into this option. The BCCI has increased the match fees but it's time the board starts marketing women's cricket with more zeal.

In the 20 years that he has been in power, Modi has been an enormously popular leader. But his long innings signifies more than popularity, leadership qualities or style of governance

MODI@20: NEW INDIA'S DESTINY MAKER

AMIT BANDRE

MAKARAND R PARANJAPE

Professor of English at JNU

RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE

Today, October 6, is the day Narendra Modi completes 20 years in office without a break. On 7 October 2001, he became Gujarat's 14th chief minister. Four spells in that position, totalling 12 years, 227 days, make him the longest-serving chief minister of the state. Then, since May 2014, as India's 14th prime minister, he has served over seven years and four months. If both these stretches, first as the head of a prominent state and then of the Union Cabinet, are taken together, Modi has been on the top of Indian politics for a staggering 7,305 days. What is more, he has not lost a single Assembly or Lok Sabha election during this time.

If only the duration in office of prime ministers is counted, Modi comes fourth. Our first prime minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, occupied the office for 6,130 days or nearly 16 years and ten months. His daughter, Indira Gandhi, was PM for 5,829 days or nearly 16 years. Manmohan Singh served two terms for 3,656 days or just over 10 years.

Modi has already overtaken Atal Bihari Vajpayee's tenure of 2,272 days or a little over six years and two months. He will surpass Singh's two-term length in office if he remains as the prime minister till 29 May 2024. To pass Nehru's record, however, Modi will have to remain PM till March 2031, that is for almost one more term and a half, facing two more general elections in 2024 and 2029. In 2024 he will be 74 years old and 79 in 2029. To speculate on whether he is likely to contest that long is only for the statistically inclined or astrologically minded.

The rest of us might more fruitfully ask, what is the significance of Modi@20? There is a simple answer to this as well as a more complicated one. The simple answer should be obvious: Narendra Modi is an enormously popular and successful leader. The Indian voting public has repeatedly reposed their trust in him. In voting him to power, they have known that they were electing India's prime minister or, earlier, Gujarat's chief minister. Therefore, these years in office amply demonstrate an endorsement of his policies, style of governance and leadership qualities.

But his long innings at the helm of affairs signifies more than popularity, leadership qualities or style of governance. It also shows his enormous political acumen, organisational abilities, oratory skills and, above all, his knack of striking a rapport with the Indian masses. Modi, thus, is not only a charismatic leader, but a great communicator as well.

What is more, he inspires loyalty and fear. The latter were not attributes we normally associate with most of his predecessors. The only other prime minister who inspired similar awe and fear was Indira Gandhi. But then, she was also surrounded by sycophants, who contributed to her downfall. Modi might save himself from such a fate by his fabled panoptical, 360 degree feedback and reporting system, which ensures that he does not lose touch with the pulse of the people he serves.

Like Indira, however, Modi too has centralised power and authority in great measure. He has done so by appointing weak or non-political ministers who lack a political base. He has also clipped the wings of leaders with a standing of their own. Barring a few exceptions, no major regional satrap has a place in his Cabinet, nor is anyone else allowed to come across as the face of his government other than himself.

Modi, thus, stands alone, like a colossus. Not only when he addresses the nation, but also at major events or locales. No one shares the stage with him when he meets foreign dignitaries in India or overseas. No one appears alongside him when he is at the Red Fort, Statue of Unity or Raj Ghat.

Modi is quite unlike any other prime minister before him. Whether one agrees or disagrees with him, adores or abhors him, no one can deny that he is one of a kind

Those in the know aver that he has also bypassed or outflanked the standard operating procedures of the Indian bureaucracy. Secretaries of several ministries answer directly to the PMO, which is manned by loyalists or retirees. Officers on Special Duty advise and help state governors and chief ministers, thus keeping tabs on how well they perform. Performance indicators are continuously monitored in all departments of the government to ensure that no one in public office slacks off.

This brings us to the more complex meaning of his success. For Modi is quite unlike any other prime minister before him. He is not only a game changer but also a visionary of the kind we have rarely seen in Indian politics. An outsider to Lutyens Delhi, he has not only sidelined the media, which had assumed the role of image-makers, if not kingmakers, in the past, he has also set about fashioning his own narrative of a new India.

Whether it is demonetisation, GST, the Citizenship Amendment Act, the resolution of the Ram Janmabhoomi dispute or changing the status of Jammu and Kashmir, to name just a few, Modi's actions have been bold and unprecedented. He has also, in the teeth of opposition and calumny, replaced secularism with Hindutva as India's ruling ideology. Modi has made radical departures from the past and taken on problems once considered intractable. In fact, we are in the middle of one, the farmer's ongoing protests.

Modi's multitudinous and innovative schemes have made the people direct beneficiaries of the government. He has cut out middlemen and power brokers to a large extent. He has strengthened the defence forces to make Indians feel safe. He has enhanced India's stature, as well as his own, on the world stage. In addition, with mega-projects like the Statue of Unity and the Central Vista remodelling, he has ensured that his stamp on the nation will remain for a long time to come.

Whether one agrees or disagrees with him, adores or abhors him, no one can deny that Modi is one of a kind. His sincerity and commitment to serve and transform India cannot be doubted. He has no personal agenda, no other axe to grind, no selfish aim or interest to attain or promote. A tireless son, champion and warrior of Bharat Mata, with tremendous integrity and sincerity of purpose, Modi has endeared himself to crores of Indians. As far as he is concerned, that is probably all that matters.

EVOLUTION OF NAVA-GRAHAS: SEVEN, EIGHT & FINALLY NINE

SAURABH SAXENA

Founder of Puratattva, a documentation of heritage sites

The early period temples of the 6th-7th century CE in Odisha are adorned with the images of ashta-grahas (eight planets) instead of the regular nava-grahas (nine planets) group. The Shatrughneshvara group and the Parasurameshvara temple in Bhubaneswar have the doorway lintel block decorated with the images of the ashta-grahas comprising Aditya (Surya), Soma (Chandra), Angaraka (Mangal), Budha, Brhaspati, Shukra, Shanicchhar (Shani) and Rahu. Ketu is excluded from this group. The later period temples in Odisha have the depiction of the regular nava-graha group with all its members. This indicates an earlier tradition of a fewer number of grahas before the nava-graha group was crystallised. These early graha panels of Odisha are inscribed, indicating it was initial experimentation and the labels were to help the common public understand the names of the grahas.

To find answers to the evolution of the grahas, we need to dig into the annals of ancient Indian astrology and astronomy. While there is no definitive reference to grahas in the Rigveda, there is a mention of a demon Svarbhanu piercing Surya with darkness and the latter being restored by Atri. Atharvaveda, without giving names, mentions grahas as wanderers in heaven. It also mentions Rahu as a seizer of Chandra. One of the earliest available astrological treatises is probably the Parasara-tantra, which has not survived in full but is only being referred to in various later commentaries. It mentions five planets Mangal, Budha, Brhaspati, Shukra and Shani, who with Surya and Chandra (Soma), constitute a group of seven celestial bodies. Parasara-tantra also includes Rahu as a planet; however it mentions it as an invisible body responsible for eclipses. Ketus are mentioned in plural, in the context of comets.

Yavanajataka of Sphujidhvaja, dated between 4th and 6th century CE, is a Sanskrit translation of a Greek text. It is an important astrological work as it reflects the intermingling of Indian and Hellenistic (Greek) ideas and the exchange of information. In the Yavanajataka, the seven planetary deities are mentioned as Surya, Chandra, Shukra, Brhaspati Budha, Angaraka and Shanaichchara. These names match very well with the label inscriptions of Odisha. The seven planets of Yavanajataka appear to be influenced by the seven planets of Hellenistic astrology, Sun, Moon, Venus, Jupiter, Mercury, Mars and Saturn, as both follow the same sequence.

Brihat-Samhita of Varahamihira, dated to 6th century CE, is a very important work in ancient Indian astrology and astronomy and considered a landmark as he collected all the available information from past authors and provided a compendium. Varahamihira questions the validity of Rahu as a planet. He quotes a tradition of Rahu turning into a planet though his head was cut off as he tasted the divine nectar. His head resembles the orbs of other planets; however he is not visible in the sky being of dark colour except during eclipses. He mentions that authors before him have declared Rahu as having a serpentine form with a head and tail alone, and a few have said he is formless and of pure darkness. Varahamihira questions: If Rahu has a circular body with head and tail and has affixed and uniform motion, then how can he seize the Sun and Moon, as these both are located at 180° to each other during eclipse time? Or if Rahu does not have a fixed motion, then how can his position be determined by calculation? Or if this Rahu has a big body such that by his mouth he seizes the Moon and by the tail, the Sun, why does he not obstruct half of the zodiac falling between his head and tail? Or if there are two Rahus, then when one is seizing the Sun, the other should seize the Moon, but that is not practical. Like Parasara, Varahamihira also treats Ketu as comets but not as a planet.

(L) Sapta-graha on Varaha's chest, Eran, MP; (R) Nava-graha panel, Barua Sagar, UP

In his Brihajjatakam, Varahamihira includes Ketu under planets. However, he did not provide as many details as he did for other planets. His use of the synonym Shikhin for Ketu suggests that Ketu was still treated as comets. In the Puranas, treatment on the numbers of grahas is different at different places, sometimes eight and sometimes nine.

The earliest sculptural representation of grahas in Indian art is over the Yajna-Varaha figure at Eran (Madhya Pradesh), dated to 5th century CE. On the chest of the Varaha are carved seven standing figures representing seven planets. Surya, first in the group, is wearing a tunic dress and holding a lotus in both hands. This depiction of seven planets connects to the Hellenistic tradition of seven planets corresponding to the seven days of a week. While we do not find grahas on the surviving Gupta temples, there are a few Gupta period sculptures, one in the Indian Museum, Kolkata, and another in the Worcester Art Museum, depicting eight grahas excluding Ketu. Many ashta-grha panels are also reported from Bihar. Probably, after the 7th century CE, Ketu started getting included among the grahas as evident by the depiction of the nava-graha group in Indian temple art across geography as well as the inclusion of Ketu as a graha in the Puranic literature.

Anxiety of farmers

This is with reference to SC: Why protest is on when farm laws are stayed (Oct 5). Although the Supreme Court stayed the implementation of the three farm laws way back in January, this did not help in getting rid of the anger and anxiety of the farmers. Fear of an imminent lifting of the stay order and implementation of the laws is looming large in the minds of the farmers. Now that almost nine months have elapsed, the apex court should take a final call on these laws at the earliest.

Centre's desperation

The tragedy that unfolded at UP's Lakhimpur Kheri and the involvement of a Union minister's son along with the arrest of opposition leaders, preventing them from visiting the region, showcased the government's desperation with regard to the farmers' stir. It is high time a solution is found before things turn even worse.

Agents of chaos

Your editorial rightly condemns the unfortunate deaths of nine people including four farmers and three BJP workers in the violence (Lakhimpur Kheri & power of whispers to trigger violence, Oct 5). With the Supreme Court questioning the continuation of protests by farmers when the laws are kept in abeyance, one wonders who is behind the agitations that have been going on for so many months. The farm laws have been scrutinised by agriculture experts and neutral analysts and we have not seen them point to any major flaws in the laws passed by Parliament barring some minor changes. The intention of opposition parties, backed by certain sections, is to create chaos leading to violence.

Lack of support

It is sad to note that the number of suicides among transgender persons is increasing in Kerala (Oct 5). The actual numbers could be much more. They face a tough life due to social isolation and in most cases, don't even get any support from their own families. The society and the government have to help them and ensure they get proper education and jobs.

Chilli & pain treatment

A couple of American scientists have won the Nobel for medicine this year. It is interesting that the active component in chilli was used by David Julius, one of the winners, in his research that has helped transform the treatment for pain.

Trust state-run hospitals

This is with reference to The digital health ID as a democratic tool (Oct 5). State-run hospitals do provide good healthcare. My experience with the CGHS on several occasions, both during my service as well as in retirement, has been much more satisfactory than that in private clinics. Once, with no improvement in my throat infection after visits to a private clinic and several tests, I was cured by the simple advice of a CGHS doctor who examined me: "Avoid dust, drink warm water and gargle with salt water twice a day for three days. You don't need any medicine." The digital health ID programme is a welcome step towards healthcare for all.

Priyanka, 10 others held; claims not told of charges

Congress leaders are likely to be released on personal bonds, but for now they are being kept at PAC guesthouse at Sitapur in UP

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

AFTER spending more than a day in custody at a PAC guesthouse, UP's Sitapur police on Tuesday formally arrested Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra and 10 other party leaders under various sections of CrPC. Police sources said the arrests were meant to "prevent the commission of cognizable offences."

The police had stopped Priyanka and taken her in preventive custody on Monday at Sitapur while she was on her way to Lakhimpur Kheri. Besides Priyanka, the arrested included Congress leader Deepender Hooda, UP Congress chief Ajay Kumar Lallu and party MLCs Deepak Singh, Sandeep, Rajkumar, Narendra Shekhawat, Yogendra, Harikant, Dhiraj Gurjar and Amit.

The arrests were made under Sections 107, 116 and 151 (to prevent the commission of cognizable offences).

Priyanka on Tuesday released a letter undersigned by her on social media complaining against the state government and the UP Police that she had not been provided with the copy of the FIR lodged against her and 10 party leaders. She also also claimed that she had seen a piece of paper on social media in which 11 people had been named. "Eight of those 11 were not even present at the time I was arrested," she said. "No further communication regarding circumstances, reasons, sections under which I have been charged have been communicated to me," she said in the letter.

Sources said the Congress leaders are likely to be released on personal bonds. However, for now they were being kept at PAC guesthouse.

Meanwhile, Chhattisgarh CM Bhupesh Baghel, who finally reached the Lucknow airport on Tuesday, was not allowed to leave the airport and sat on the floor in protest.

In a video tweeted by Baghel, he can be seen asking the police why he was being stopped from leaving the airport when he had no intention to visit Lakhimpur Kheri.

Baghel had on Monday slammed the BJP-led Uttar Pradesh government for not allowing him to land at the Lucknow airport, and asked whether civil rights have been abolished in the northern state.

Anganwadi staffers now under ₹50L Covid cover

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

THE government has approved extending the benefit of Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Package to Anganwadi staffers. The package provides ₹50 lakh insurance coverage to healthcare workers in the line of Covid duty.

There are about 13.29 lakh Aanganwadi workers and 11.79 lakh helpers in the country.

Officials in the Union women and child development ministry on Tuesday said that those workers who have been involved in activities such as awareness and surveillance drives, door-to-door distribution of ration, caring for the infected pregnant women and vaccination drive will be covered under the scheme.

"These workers are now covered under the insurance cover of ₹50 lakh under the pandemic period for the entire period of the pandemic beginning March 11, 2020 ," said a senior WCD ministry official.

The package covers loss of life due to coronavirus and accidental death on account of the infectious disease related duties.

The official also added that the district administrations have now been asked to identify such workers and extend the list to the Centre, apart from helping the affected families claiming for the insurance benefit.

"The communication has been given to states. It is incumbent upon them to operationalise it," the official said.

BJP goes on silent mode, waits for storm to pass

MANISH ANAND @New Delhi

AMID mounting farm protest woes, the BJP has been on mute mode in a bid to avoid the Lakhimpur Kheri incident becoming a rallying ground for the Opposition to build a national narrative against the saffron outfit.

Top BJP functionaries refrained from making any comment on they incident even as party leaders admitted that the farm agitation is far from fizzling out, with the full scale of the damage in the approaching state polls is to be gauged.

Instruction is clear for senior BJP leaders that they must not make any comment while the UP government handles the issue as a localised incident.

BJP leaders, who spoke on condition of anonymity, maintained that the farm agitation will indeed be a poll issue at least in UP and Punjab, while polls in Goa, Manipur and Uttarakhand may not be influenced by the farmer protests.

It was noted with concern in the BJP that PM Narendra Modi's planned Lucknow programme, which was scheduled with the aim to gear up the party in the election mode on the development agenda, was largely overshadowed by the Lakhimpur Kheri incident.

"With the elections approaching in the five states, the farm agitation will only gain more strength as the window for climbdown for both the farmer unions and the Centre has been shut. This will hurt the BJP as it will be hard to counter the perception that the government isn't listening to the farmers," said a senior BJP leader.

A few party leaders were hard- pressed to explain the viral video showing the farmers being run over by a vehicle in Lakhimpur Kheri. BJP MP Varun Gandhi shared the viral video, commenting that it can agitate anyone "as the occupants intentionally ran over the farmers".

A worried BJP brass is likely to intervene soon in a bid to find a "temporary peace".

Clamour for arrest of MoS' son grows

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @lucknow

THE clamour for arrest of Union minister Ajay Mishra's son Ashish is growing, with Opposition leaders questioning why he was not in custody even after 72 hours of despite being named for murder and rioting in the FIR. "Where is Ashish Mishra? Why is he not being arrested? It was unfortunate that even after 72 hours, the man who is named as the main accused in the violence in the FIR is still comfortably out of police net," said a senior SP leader.

The Samyukta Kisan Morcha also demanded the immediate arrest of Ashish Mishra and his accomplices while Bhartiya Kisan Union leader Rakesh Tikait gave a week's ultimatum to the UP government for arresting him.

Senior UP Police officers attributed the 'inaction' to the police's pre-occupation. "Initially, we were busy with negotiations with farmers and then getting the post-mortem done and then with getting the cremations of the bodies," said S N Sabat, ADG, Lucknow Zone.

Meanwhile, the Editors Guild of India condemned the death of TV journalist Raman Kashyap in the Lakhimpur violence and demanded that a separate probe should be conducted by a court-led special investigation team to ascertain the circumstances under which he died.

Letter to SC seeks high-level judicial inquiry

New Delhi: A letter was sent to the Supreme Court on Tuesday seeking a high-level judicial inquiry, involving the CBI, under the supervision of the apex court into the Lakhimpur Kheri incident. The letter by two advocates has urged CJI N V Ramana to treat it as a PIL so that guilty could be 'brought to justice'. It has also sought direction to the Union Home Ministry and the police to register an FIR in th e case and punish those allegedly involved in the incident. The letter, written by advocates Shiv Kumar Tripathi and C S Panda, has sought direction seeking the institution of a high-level judicial inquiry under the SC's supervision within a stipulated time. It said having regard to the seriousness of the killing of farmers, it is incumbent upon the apex court to intervene in the matter. Eight people were killed on October 3 as violence erupted during a farmers' protest.

Lakhimpur violence may queer BJP poll pitch in UP's Terai region

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

THE Lakhimpur Kheri incident may queer the poll pitch for the BJP in the assembly elections next year, not just in the district that had seen a saffron surge last time, but the entire Terai region of Uttar Pradesh.

Lakhimpur Kheri is the largest district of Uttar Pradesh's Terai region. Sikh farmer community predominantly inhabits the area. The Sikhs were rehabilitated here after the Partition. The BJP could manage only one seat in the 2012 polls. However, in the 2017 elections, it won all eight assembly segments in the district.

Apart from the Sikhs, Brahmins, Kurmis and Muslims inhabit Lakhimpur Kheri. The district is known for cane farming.

The aftermath of the Sunday violence will have a cascading effects on adjoining districts such as Pilibhit, Shahjahanpur, Hardoi, Sitapur and Bahraich, fears the BJP. In these districts, including Lakhimpur Kheri, the saffron brigade had registered major gains in the 2017 assembly elections by winning 37 seats of the 42.

The letters and the pro-farmers tweets by BJP's Pilibhit MP Varun Gandhi show that the Gandhi scion doesn't want to antagonise the farmers, a major chunk of his vote bank.

"The Lakhimpur Kheri episode is likely to resonate in the upcoming UP elections. The opposition will try and keep up the heat," observes political scientist Prof A K Mishra.

However, a senior BJP leader credits the state government for having successfully pacified the farmers and brought the situation under control. He claims that the BJP has done a lot for the farmers' welfare in the state. In 2017, the Samajwadi Party and Congress were in alliance. The SP had won just four seats in the Terai region. The Congress had drawn a blank. The BSP had managed to win a single seat.

Ajay Mishra had won a seat for the BJP from Nighasan assembly segment. Nighasan is the spot of the Sunday incident. The BJP had won this assembly seat thrice since 1993. However, Mishra had lost the election from this seat in 2007.

'Air Force to get 35 combat squadrons'

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE combat fighter squadrons of the Indian Air Force will touch a high of 35 by next decade with the induction of new aircraft, said new IAF chief, Air Chief Marshal V R Chaudhari on Tuesday while addressing the media on the eve of the 89th Air Force Day. One squadron has roughly 18 fighter jets.

Keeping the threat perceptions, the IAF has a sanctioned strength of 42 fighter squadrons to meet the two-front requirements. The air chief said the country was fully ready to take on its adversaries. "In the next 10-15 years, we are not going to have 42 squadrons. In view of phasing out and induction of new aircraft, we would have 35 squadrons in the next decade," he said.

"We will have 83 LCAs — four squadrons of LCA MK1A, about six-seven squadrons of AMCA and six squadrons of MRFA (multirole fighter aircraft). Those who are to be phased out include four squadrons of MiG-21, Jaguar and MiG-29." India currently has four squadrons of MiG-21 fighter jets, which will retire in the next 3-4 years.

On the situation along the Line of Actual Control in Ladakh, the IAF chief said, "PLA's air force troops are deployed across the area. Talks are on for disengagement. The Chinese have developed huge infrastructure, but that is not going to affect our operations."

The Indian Army and the Chinese People's Liberation Army are deployed in a tense standoff mode along the Eastern Ladakh. Also, the PLA Air Force has improved it air force infrastructure.

The air chief also talked about the Theatre Command and said, "IAF is keen on integration amongst the Armed Forces. The Joint planning and execution of operations by the three Services will result in a maximum increase in our net combat capability," he said.

When sked about a public spat between Chief of Defence Staff General Bipin Rawat and former IAF chief RKS Bhadauria, Air Chief Marshal Chaudhari said, "As an air force, we are fully committed to integration and joint-manship. The points articulated by my predecessor stressed that structures and processes should cater to the future warfare. Strength of each force should be taken into count."

SC orders suo motu case for bail guidelines

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

EXPRESSING dissatisfaction over the response filed by the Allahabad High Court, the Supreme Court on Tuesday ordered registration of a suo motu case to consider laying down guidelines to deal with long pendency of criminal appeals in the Allahabad High Court.

A bench comprising Justices S K Kaul and M M Sundresh said there must be a mechanism that if the accused approach high courts, then the bail applications are listed promptly for hearing.

"An affidavit has been filed by the High Court (Allahabad) accepting suggestions by the government. If we peruse the said suggestions, it will make the exercise of grant of bail more cumbersome. If an appeal is pending at the high court stage and the convict has undergone eight years of sentence, exceptions apart, in most cases bail would be the rule. Despite that the cases don't come up for consideration. We are not clear how much time is taken for such bail matters to be listed," the bench noted.

The top court said there may be convicts who may not have requisite access to legal advice for moving bail applications and the high court must explore all cases where convicts who have undergone a sentence of eight years can be considered for grant of bail.

"We are also conscious of scenarios where appeal comes up for hearing when the appellant will be seeking adjournment rather than arguing the case. That case would certainly not be one for grant of bail," the bench said.

The SC said the convict must approach the high court first so that the Supreme Court is not unnecessarily burdened. But there must be a mechanism that if an accused approaches a high court, the bail application is listed promptly.

"In view of our broad observations, HC has to place before us how such cases would be taken up for consideration of grant of bail," the SC said.

As of August 2021, there are 1,83,000 criminal appeals pending both at Allahabad High Court and Lucknow Bench.

Changes in FCA for vital projects likely

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Environment Ministry has proposed to amend the Forest Conservation Act (FCA) to do away with the requirement of prior government approval for the development of border infrastructure on forest land, saying it causes delay in the implementation of critical projects.

The ministry has invited suggestions from states, union territories and all people concerned on the proposed amendments to the Act, within the next 15 days.

"Development of infrastructure along the international border areas is crucial for keeping our borders intact and to uphold the sovereignty of the country.

"Given the present scenario of obtaining approval for non-forestry use of forest land, many a times, strategic and security projects of national importance get delayed," the ministry noted while proposing to exempt such projects from obtaining prior approval of the central government under the Act. It also proposed to allow the states to permit non-forest use of forest land for implementation of such strategic and security projects that are to be completed in a given time frame. The ministry also plans to exempt from prior government approval the lands which were acquired before 1980.

Militants kill Kashmiri Pandit who never fled

Street vendor from Bihar and civilian also gunned down within a span of few hours

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

A prominent Kashmiri Pandit businessman, who had not left the Valley even after the militancy erupted in 1990, was among three people killed by militants on Tuesday.

A police officer said militants targeted Makhan Lal Bindroo, the owner of Srinagar's famous chemist shop Bindroo Medicate, at his pharmacy at Iqbal Park area in uptown Srinagar in the evening. The militants fired from a point blank range, leaving Bindroo in a pool of blood, and escaped from the highly secured area.

Bindroo, 65, was rushed to the SMHS Hospital where doctors declared him brought dead. SMHS medical superintendent Dr Kanwaljeet Singh told this newspaper that Bindroo was hit by four bullets. "One of the bullets hit him on eyebrow," he said.

Immediately after the militant attack, police, CRPF and army personnel rushed to the area and launched a combing and search operation.

The area where the attack took place is highly secured as police and paramilitary personnel remain stationed. A police station is barely a few hundred meters away from the pharmacy and a paramilitary CRPF camp is also not far off.

Unlike others of his community, Bindroo had stayed back with his wife and operated his pharmacy. Bindroo Medicate is one-stop shop for patients as the medicines unavailable anywhere else can be found there.

An hour after Bindroo's killing, militants shot dead a non-local street vendor at Lal Bazar area in downtown Srinagar. The deceased, who was selling his ware in a handcart, was identified as Virender Paswan of Bhagalpur from Bihar.

In the third attack, militants shot dead a civilian in Hajin area of north Kashmir's Bandipora district in the evening.

Militants fired from blank range at Mohammad Shafi, a civilian, in Shahgund Hajin area. He was also declared brought dead by doctors.

The killings drew widespread condemnations from all the political parties. J&K Lt Governor Manoj Sinha strongly condemned the killings and said perpetrators of these heinous acts would be brought to justice very soon.

Terrorists will never succeed in their nefarious designs, and those responsible for such heinous acts shall be brought to justice. My heartfelt condolences to the bereaved families — Manoj Sinha, J&K L-G

We gave roof to poor: Modi jibe at SP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Lucknow

PM Narendra Modi is briefed by an official at exhibition area of the conference-cum-expo in Lucknow on Tuesday | PTI

TARGETING his detractors, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday claimed that they would have more reasons to attack him if they came to know that over three lakh beneficiaries of government welfare schemes had turned 'lakhpatis' during his rule.

Modi substantiated his claim saying that the lakhpatis had now pucca houses worth lakhs of rupees under the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana-Urban (PMAY-U).

At an event organised by the urban development department, he claimed that urban planning had been a victim of politics under previous regimes. "Prior to 2017, the Centre had sanctioned 18,000 houses to be built for the poor in UP but not even 18 houses were constructed by the then government which used to put roadblocks in the implementation of welfare schemes."

On the occasion, Modi digitally handed over keys of houses to 75,000 beneficiaries.

"The people of Uttar Pradesh must understand the difference of the earlier dispensations and the present government," he said, adding that the previous governments did not wish to get houses constructed for the poor. "They were creating hurdles in getting houses constructed. The Yogi Adityanath government has given nine lakh houses so far and another 14 lakh houses are under different stages of construction," he added.

The PM also inaugurated the 'Azadi@75 – New Urban India: Transforming Urban Landscape' Conference-cum-Expo' in the presence of Adityanath, defence minister Rajnath Singh, Union minister Hardeep Singh Puri and UP governor Anandiben Patel.

While handing over keys to the house owners, Modi brought up the issue of women's rights. "Women are deprived of their rights in property. So, we decided to give them ownership of government houses," he said patting the back of Adityanath for providing women a relaxation of two percent in the registration of houses.

Listing out the steps taken to provide houses to the poor, Modi said the construction of 1.13 crore houses was sanctioned during his six-year rule while earlier it used to be 13 lakh of which only eight lakh were built. "Over 50 lakh houses have already been constructed and handed over to beneficiaries. We authorised the beneficiaries to go ahead with the design of their houses."

Congress synonymous with loot: Sitharaman

Raipur: Union finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman slammed the Congress for criticising the Centre's asset monetisation pipeline scheme and said that "loot" existed in the DNA of the party. "The medium of loot never goes out of the mind of the Congress as it was rampant during their rule—whether it was spectrum, mines, water and what not," she stated .

NAGA ACCORD LIKELY BY X-MAS

SANA SHAKIL @ New Delhi

THE Naga peace accord may be sealed before Christmas, with top leaders of the National Socialist Council of Nagaland (Issak-Muivah faction) arriving for talks in Delhi on Tuesday.

The Centre is keen on resolving the issue soon.

NSCN (IM) general secretary Thuingaleng Muivah, emissary of the NSCN (IM) collective leadership VS Atem and other top leaders such as RH Raising reached Delhi to finalise the agenda and date of the next meeting.

Former IB special director AK Mishra will continue to represent the government. While an official announcement is yet to be made about Mishra's appointment as the new interlocutor for the Naga peace talks, the government has given all indications of the same.

In a letter written recently to the NSCN (IM), Mishra was addressed as the "PMO representative", a title which was earlier held by RN Ravi who resigned as the interlocutor on September 22.

After nearly two years, the peace talks resumed on September 20 in Dimapur following which the insurgent outfit had a detailed meeting with Assam and Nagaland chief ministers. Officials said that NSCN (IM)'s meeting with two chief ministers was preceded by Himanta Sarma's deliberations with Home Minister Amit Shah.

During the last meeting, it was agreed upon by both parties that a solution to the Naga political problem needs to be worked out at the earliest, sources said about the agenda of the next meeting.

"Both sides are keen on a solution so that peace and development can be accelerated in Nagaland. It is likely that the peace accord may be worked out before Christmas," an official said.

The Centre and the NSCN (IM) inked the Framework Agreement on August 3, 2015 while the parallel dialogue commenced with Naga National Political Groups in 2017 with the signing of the agreed position the same year.

CHARDHAM

HC removes cap on daily pilgrim visits

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Dehradun

THE Uttarakhand High Court on Tuesday lifted the daily cap on the number of pilgrims visiting Kedarnath, Badrinath, Gangotri and Yamunori.

The bench headed by Chief Justice RS Chauhan stated that there shall not be any maximum limit to the number of pilgrims.

"Undoubtedly, many sectors have been opened up by the government, both nationally and state-wise. While the schools and colleges have been opened up, restaurants, movie halls, and malls are also opened up. Even the centres of pilgrimage are also opened up. Therefore, it would, indeed, be in the interest of justice to remove the upper cap limit for the pilgrims to visit the Chardhams," the division bench said.

Earlier, only 1,000 pilgrims were allowed in Kedarnath in a day followed by 800 in Badrinath, 600 in Gangotri and 400 in Yamunotri.

Considering that there could be a sudden rush of pilgrims, the court directed the government to ensure nine steps to check the Covid spread. These include mandatory negative RT-PCR test report, social distancing, availability of sufficient number of accommodation in the shrines, enhancing and strengthening medical facilities among others.

Rebellion in BJP over entry of ex-Cong leader, son

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

THE ruling BJP in bypoll bound Jobat constituency in Madhya Pradesh's Alirajpur district is faced with a rebellion in its ranks after the entry of ex-Congress MLA Sulochana Rawat and her son Vishal into the party.

Irked over the mother-son duo's inclusion in the party, many local BJP functionaries in Jobat have offered to resign from their posts. Two other leaders have taken nomination forms for the October 30 bypoll to contest as rebels if the BJP fielded either Sulochana or her son from the constituency, which has largely been a Congress bastion.

Former Jobat Nagar Parishad chairman Dipak Chouhan and Alirajpur district president of the party's youth wing Abhijit Dawar are in no mood to accept the mother-son duo in the party and have announced to fight the bypolls as rebels, if the party gives ticket to either of the Rawats.

Just a day after the mother-son duo joined the BJP in Bhopal on Sunday, many local BJP functionaries had opposed the entry of the two.

NO SURPRISE IN CONG PICK OF CANDIDATES

In the opposition camp, the Congress on expected lines declared Alirajpur district party president Mahesh Patel as its candidate for the Jobat bypoll. Kalpana Verma was nominated for Raigaon-SC Assembly bypoll. Party veteran and three-time former MLA Raj Narayan Singh Dhurni would be the candidate for the Khandwa-Burhanpur Lok Sabha seat bypoll.

At least nine local functionaries while offering to resign from their party posts in the presence of MP minister Om Prakash Sakhlecha in Jobat on Monday, made it clear that they would oppose any move by the party to field anyone else from outside Alirajpur district.

Most of those opposing the Rawats are considered loyalists of ex-BJP MLA Madhosingh Dawar, who was till recently seen as the front-runner for the poll ticket.

The tribal reserved Jobat seat has been won by the Congress 11 times in the past, out of which the powerful Rawat family has won nine times.

Tripura MLA tonsures to atone for joining BJP

GUWAHATI: On the eve of "Mahalaya", Tripura BJP MLA Asish Das tonsured his head at the Kalighat temple in Kolkata on Tuesday to atone the "blunder" he made by joining the saffron party.

The Surma MLA said the "evil" BJP was "swallowing" the entire country. "I feel I had committed a crime by becoming a part of the BJP. It was a blunder that I made. I offered a puja at Kalighat temple and tonsured my head to make amends," Das said.

"I realised the evil BJP is swallowing the country. I prayed to God to seek the destruction of this evil power."

On Monday, Das had spoke highly about West Bengal chief minister Mamata Banerjee and criticised PM Narendra Modi for "selling out most government properties to the private parties".

The farmer-turned-MLA said the people of Tripura had voted the BJP to power in 2018 seeking a change. He said people misunderstood the elected representatives and were blaming them for failing to fulfil their hopes and aspirations.

Das said he was not bothered about any possible disciplinary action by the BJP. "I am neither a thief nor a goon. I am not corrupt either." ENS

BJP sweeps Gandhinagar, 2 other civic bodies

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE BJP registered a landslide victory in the Gandhinagar Municipal Corporation (GMC) polls on Tuesday where it won 41 seats out of the total 44.

It also won other civic local bodies in Gujarat. The Congress, however, snatched the Bhanvad Municipality.

The Gujarat State Election Commission (SEC) authorities said the polling in the GMC remained largely peaceful.

The AAP had put in a concerted effort in the GMC through an innovative campaign by its senior leaders. However, it failed in Gandhinagar. After Surat civic body elections, the AAP was confident. However, the voters of Gandhinagar rejected it.

In the GMC elections, the Congress was able to bag only two seats. The AAP won one seat. In the Okha Nagar Palika elections, too, BJP recorded a resounding victory. It won 34 out of the 36 seats.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi expressed his gratitude to the people of Gujarat for the BJP's victory. "The results reaffirm the deep-rooted bond between the people of Gujarat and the BJP," he said.

The GMC was very significant. It was the litmus test in the backdrop of several changes in the government and party structure in Gujarat. The BJP has not only replaced the chief minister but changed the entire cabinet. However, despite this, people remained loyal to the saffron party.

In Bhanvad, the Congress snatched the civic body from the ruling party. Out of 24 seats, Congress emerged as the winner. It won 16 seats. The BJP won only eight seats. The saffron party had been in power in Bhanvad since 1995.

According to the SEC, the polling witnessed around 56.24 per cent voters' turn-out.

Political observers said that the Congress and the AAP would have to go back again to the drawing board to discuss and decide strategy.

Birthday bash or show of strength?

Congress state president Govind Singh Dotasara also used his birthday to showcase his strength and popularity. Dasara had become the PCC chief after Pilot was sacked 14 months ago but there was no major event in which he could demonstrate his power. But for his birthday bash on October 1, a grand stage was built outside the Congress headquarters where many big leaders were invited. Congress veteran Digvijaya Singh joined the celebration as Dotasara cut the cake in the presence of thousands of party workers.

Mission Niryatak Bano wins praise

The Rajasthan government's recently launched "Mission Niryatak Bano' to boost exports has won praise from the Centre. At the concluding session of the Vanijya Utsav in Delhi, Union minister Piyush Goyal said that the Mission was a great idea that could inspire other states. "This is a helpful scheme for exporters and the team in Rajasthan deserves to be praised for this," he said. Brainchild of PR Sharma, joint director of the Rajasthan Export Promotion Council, the scheme was launched in July this year. It aims to promote aspiring exporters by registering and handholding local traders who are willing to expand their business to foreign countries. Besides easing up the processes of government clearances, the state government offers incentives under the new policy which has already helped to create 1,700 new exporters.

PM's cryptic message

The virtual ceremony to lay the foundation stone of four medical colleges in Rajasthan last week has created quite a buzz. Ashok Gehlot put forward a list of development works to PM Narendra Modi , who lauded the Rajasthan chief minister. Calling Gehlot a "good friend", "Rajasthan CM, while speaking, put forward a list of works. I thank him for the trust he has reposed in me. We follow different political ideologies, yet he spoke about it openheartedly because he trusts me. This friendship, and the trust and faith, are the biggest strength of a democracy," the prime minister added. Modi's statement is now currently being much-discussed among political circles in Rajasthan.

Blinken meets Macron, seeks to end rift

PARIS

PRESIDENT Emmanuel Macron on Tuesday held talks with visiting US Secretary of State Antony Blinken in his first meeting with a US official since the scrapping of a submarine contract with Australia plunged relations into crisis.

Blinken, who has been seeking to patch up ties with France after Canberra ditched the deal as part of a security pact with the UK and US, did not originally have an appointment with Macron on the agenda for his two-day visit to Paris.

The one-on-one meeting lasted around 40 minutes with "common agreement that we have an opportunity now to deepen and strengthen the coordination" even though "a lot of hard work remains to be done", a senior State Department official told reporters in Paris. The Elysee also confirmed the meeting with Macron, saying Blinken's visit would contribute to "restoring confidence" between the sides.

His government called secret talks leading up to the cancellation "a stab in the back" and the French president recalled his ambassadors from Washington and Canberra.

US President Joe Biden, possibly taken aback by the extent

US Secretary of State Antony Blinken addresses the OECD meeting on Tuesday

of Macron's anger, has since tried to make amends, with Karen Donfried, the Assistant Secretary of State for European affairs, admitting last week that "the September 15 announcement would have benefited from better and more open consultation among allies".

Blinken earlier Tuesday met French counterpart Jean-Yves Le Drian for an hour in what Le Drian's spokeswoman had flagged as a chance to "identify stages that may allow a return of confidence between our two countries". He then drove to the Elysee Palace for a scheduled meeting with Macron's security advisor Emmanuel Bonne, but "then had a one-on-one with President Macron for probably about 30 or 40 minutes", the State Department official said.

The mood of the encounter was "serious", the official said. "I don't want to characterise their emotions, but I would say, at least in the discussions we had, it was very cordial and amicable," he said.

Whistleblower warns govt to rein in Facebook

Says the firm's sleight of hand with data threatens democracy

FORCED LOGOUT

Millions across the globe were unable to access Facebook, Instagram and WhatsApp for more than six hours on Monday. Here's what happened

THE CAUSE

Cyber experts say the error lay in Border Gateway Patrol (BGP), a system the Internet uses to pick the quickest route to move packets of information

Facebook recently updated its BGP, but the update contained a crucial error

It's not yet clear how or why, but Facebook's routers sent a message to the Internet saying the company's servers no longer existed

THE DELAYED REPAIR

After the routing update, FB engineers got locked out of the system, so they couldn't fix the problem

The knock-on effects included some Facebook employees being unable to even enter their buildings because their security badges no longer worked

AND THE OUTAGE'S IMPACT?

Between Facebook, Instagram, WhatsApp and Facebook Messenger, billions of users were impacted

Facebook's shares fell 5% over the outage, while website late Zuckerberg's personal fortune plunged by nearly $6 billion

We've been working hard to restore access to our apps and services and are happy to report they are coming back online now

Facebook's statement

Former Facebook employee Frances Haugen arrives to testify before a Senate committee at Capitol Hill on Tuesday | AFP

WASHINGTON

A Facebook whistleblower went before US lawmakers on Tuesday to push them to regulate the social media giant, after an outage hit potentially billions of users and highlighted global dependence on its services.

Ex-employee Frances Haugen testified on Capitol Hill after she leaked reams of internal research to authorities and The Wall Street Journal, which detailed how Facebook knew its sites were potentially harmful to young people's mental health. She spoke to senators less than a day after Facebook, its photo-sharing app Instagram and messaging service WhatsApp went offline for roughly seven hours, with "billions of users" impacted, according to tracker Downdetector.

Haugen warned in a pre-prepared statement of the risk of not creating new safeguards for a platform that reveals little about how it operates. "I believe that Facebook's products harm children, stoke division and weaken our democracy," her statement said. "Congressional action is needed. They won't solve this crisis without your help."

In her testimony she notes the danger of the power in the hands of a service that is woven into the daily lives of so many people. "The firm intentionally hides vital information from the public, from the US government and from governments around the world," Haugen's statement said.

"The severity of this crisis demands that we break out of our previous regulatory frames." Facebook has pushed back hard against the outrage regarding its practices and their impact, but this is just the latest crisis to hit the Silicon Valley giant.

US lawmakers for years have threatened to regulate Facebook and other social media platforms to address criticisms that the tech giants trample on privacy, provide a megaphone for dangerous misinformation and damage young people's well-being.

Haugen, a 37-year-old data scientist from Iowa, has worked for companies including Google and Pinterest – but said in an interview Sunday with CBS news show "60 Minutes" that Facebook was "substantially worse" than anything she had seen before.

Facebook's vice president of policy Nick Clegg pushed back at the assertion its platforms are "toxic" for teens, days after a tense, hours-long congressional hearing in which US lawmakers grilled the company.

Inequality hurting recovery, says IMF

WASHINGTON

THE global economic bounceback from the Covid-19 crisis will downshift this year as countries struggle with rising prices, high debt loads and divergent recoveries in which poor nations are slipping behind wealthier ones, the leader of the IMF warned on Tuesday.

While the Washington-based crisis lender has hundreds of billions of dollars in new firepower to help countries recover from the catastrophe, IMF Managing Director Kristalina Georgieva said factors from rising food prices to unequal vaccine access were taking a toll.

"We face a global recovery that remains 'hobbled' by the pandemic and its impact. We are unable to walk forward properly," Georgieva said in a speech delivered virtually from Washington to Bocconi University in Milan.

The IMF will release new growth forecasts next week, but Georgieva warned "we now expect growth to moderate slightly this year" from the six percent forecast in July, and "the risks and obstacles to a balanced global recovery have become even more pronounced."

These include a widening divergence between the rich and the poor countries in the trajectories of their recovery from Covid. "Economic output in advanced economies is projected to return to pre-pandemic trends by 2022. But most emerging and developing countries will take many more years to recover," Georgieva said. "This delayed recovery will make it even more difficult to avoid long-term economic scarring -- including from job losses, which hit young people, women and informal workers especially hard."

Georgieva's speech comes ahead of the fall meetings of the IMF and World Bank, where the former will unveil its latest World Economic Outlook offering forecasts on an array of topics. Since their previous report in July, the IMF's tool kit for dealing with global crises was greatly expanded with a $650 billion increase in cash reserves for member nations known as Special Drawing Rights.

French Catholic clergy abused over 2 lakh kids

PARIS

FRENCH Catholic clergy sexually abused around 2,16,000 minors spanning seven decades since 1950, a "massive phenomenon" that was covered up by a "veil of silence," an independent commission said Tuesday.

The commission's two-and-a-half-year inquiry and 2,500-page report prompted outrage as the Catholic Church in France and around the world faces a growing number of abuse claims and prosecutions.

Pope Francis expressed "great pain" over the "appalling" findings, a Vatican spokesman said, adding: "His thoughts turn first to the victims, with great sorrow for their wounds and gratitude for their courage in speaking out."

The report found that the "vast majority" of victims were pre-adolescent boys from a variety of social backgrounds. Their abusers were mainly priests, bishops, deacons and monks.

When claims against lay members of the Church, such as teachers at Catholic schools are included, the number of child abuse victims climbs to 330,000 since 1950, the report found. "These figures are more than worrying, they are damning and in no way can remain without a response," commission chief Jean-Marc Sauve told a press conference that unveiled the nearly 2,500-page report.

"Until the early 2000s, the Catholic Church showed a profound and even cruel indifference towards the victims."

Archbishop Eric de Moulins-Beaufort, president of the Bishops' Conference of France (CEF), which co-requested the report, expressed his "shame and horror" at the findings.

Taliban killed 12 surrendered Hazaras in retribution

KABUL

TALIBAN forces unlawfully killed 13 ethnic Hazaras, most of them Afghan soldiers who had surrendered to the insurgents, a prominent rights group said on Tuesday. The killings took place in the village of Kahor in Daykundi province in central Afghanistan on Aug. 30, according to an investigation by Amnesty International. Eleven of the victims were members of the Afghan national security forces and two were civilians, among them a 17-year-old girl.

The reported killings took place about two weeks after the Taliban took control of Afghanistan in a blitz campaign, culminating in their takeover of Kabul. At the time, Taliban leaders sought to reassure Afghans that they had changed from their previous harsh rule of the country in the late 1990s. Meanwhile in Kabul, the Taliban said Tuesday they arrested 11 members of the Islamic State group, a rival and bitter enemy of the insurgents. The IS affiliate — based in eastern Nangarhar province — has claimed responsibility for a spate of attacks targeting Taliban forces in eastern Afghanistan.

Taliban spokesman Bilal Karimi posted on Twitter that the raid was carried out on Sunday night in the Afghan capital's Fifth Police District. The raid came just hours after a bombing that targeted the Eid Gah Mosque in Kabul, killing at least five people. IS claimed responsibility for the mosque attack late on Monday, saying in a post via the Aamaq news agency, that one of their suicide bombers targeted senior Taliban figures following a mourning service.

RELIEF FOR TAX HAVENS AFTER AGREEMENT

BRUSSELS: The European Union removed Anguilla, Dominica and Seychelles from its tax haven blacklist on Tuesday amid criticism that the trade bloc is letting countries off the hook, particularly in light of the recent Pandora Papers revelations. Anguilla, Dominica and Seychelles were placed on the list because they did not meet tax transparency criteria. EU finance ministers, meeting in Luxembourg, endorsed a decision to move them to a 'grey list' after the three agreed to a review of their tax systems. The EU blacklist was set up in 2017 to tackle rampant tax evasion and is regularly updated. Nine 'jurisdictions' remain listed as 'non-cooperative:' American Samoa, Fiji, Guam, Palau, Panama, Samoa, Trinidad and Tobago, the U.S. Virgin Islands and Vanuatu. Anguilla, Dominica and Seychelles are now listed as places that do not yet comply with all international tax standards but have committed to the principles of good tax governance.

Moody's changes India outlook to 'stable'

Expects 9.3% growth in FY21; downside risks from negative feedback between economy & financial system recedes

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

GLOBAL rating agency Moody's Investors Service on Tuesday changed the rating outlook of Indian economy to "stable" from "negative", as the downside risks from negative feedback between the real economy and financial system are receding, the agency said.

"The decision to change the outlook to stable reflects Moody's view that the downside risks from negative feedback between the real economy and financial system are receding. With higher capital cushions and greater liquidity, banks and non-bank financial institutions pose much lesser risk to the sovereign than Moody's previously anticipated," it said.

It added that downside risks to growth from subsequent coronavirus infection waves are mitigated by rising vaccination rates and more selective use of restrictions on economic activity, as seen during the second wave.

Moody's expects India's real GDP to surpass 2019 levels this fiscal year, rebounding to a growth rate of 9.3%, followed by 7.9% in fiscal 2022.

While admitting that risks stemming from a high debt burden and weak debt affordability remain, it expects the economic environment will allow for a gradual reduction of the general government fiscal deficit over the next few years, preventing further deterioration of the sovereign credit profile.

"The affirmation of the Baa3 ratings balances India's key credit strengths, which include a large and diversified economy with high growth potential, a relatively strong external position, and a stable domestic financing base for government debt, against its principal credit challenges, including low per capita incomes, high general government debt, low debt affordability and more limited government effectiveness," Moody's said.

India's long-term local-currency (LC) bond ceiling remains unchanged at A2 and its long-term foreign-currency (FC) bond ceiling remains unchanged at A3. The rating upgrade followed after the finance ministry officials met representatives of global ratings agency Moody's on Sept 28.

EMERGING MARKETS STOCKS AT 6-WEEK LOW, CHINESE PROPERTY BONDS SLAMMED BY DEFAULT WOES

Emerging market stocks hit a six-week low on Tuesday as a US technology rout spilled over, while dollar bonds of Chinese property developers tumbled on deepening concerns over widespread defaults in the sector. Dollar-denominated bonds of mid-sized property developers Kaisa Group and Fantasia Holdings slumped between 10 to 11 cents, leading losses among their peers as concerns over a default drove a slew of ratings downgrades. Focus also remained on China's second largest property developer, Evergrande, as it struggles to clear its massive $300 billion debt pile. Stock markets were reeling from a steep Monday sell down in US technology shares, with Hong Kong-listed Baidu Inc, Alibaba Group and Tencent, some of the largest emerging market stocks, down between 1% and 1.5%. MSCI's EM stock benchmark fell 0.2%, while the tech-heavy South Korean index slumped 1.9%. Rising US Treasury yields weighed on most EM currencies, with Russia's rouble leading losses in Europe, the Middle East and Africa (EMEA) with a 0.4% decline against the dollar.

TAIWAN

TAIWAN SEPT EXPORTS SET TO RISE FOR 15TH STRAIGHT MONTH: POLL

Taiwan's exports likely rose for a 15th straight month in September, a Reuters poll showed, boosted by strong demand for electronics goods as the global economy traces its path back to recovery. Taiwan, a global hub for chip production and a key Apple Inc supplier, is one of Asia's major exporters of technology goods, and the trade data is seen as an important gauge of world demand for technology gadgets. Last month's exports were seen rising 25% on the year, the poll showed, slowing slightly from 26.9% in August. The export forecasts ranged widely between a rise of 12% and 29%, reflecting uncertainties over the global economic recovery and the ongoing supply chain disruptions caused by the Covid-19 pandemic. Separately, CPI was expected to rise 2.20% from a year earlier, compared with an increase of 2.36% in August.

NEW US-CHINA TRADE PLAN LEAVES INDUSTRY HUNGRY FOR SPECIFICS

Having waited 8 months for US Trade Representative Katherine Tai's promised "top-to-bottom" policy review of trade with China, some US industries and experts were complaining over the plan's lack of specifics on negotiations or timing, according to Reuters. On Monday, Tai, President Joe Biden's top trade official, pledged to hold talks with Chinese officials over their failure to meet the terms of former President Donald Trump's "Phase 1" trade deal, and to revive a process to grant exclusions from tariffs on Chinese imports. "She's going to re-engage with China and that's a good thing," said Mary Lovely, a Syracuse University trade economist who attended Tai's speech in Washington. "But her whole plan seems to be, 'I'm going to have a conversation.'" Tai will leave in place most of Trump's controversial tariffs on hundreds of billions of dollars of Chinese goods as she launches discussions with her counterpart, Chinese Vice Premier Liu He. Tai's speech won support from Democratic lawmakers, unions as well as a former Trump administration trade official.

64 power plants have coal stock for less than four days

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE power sector coal shortage situation continues to remain grim as data from Central Electricity Authority (CEA) shows that at least 108 power plants had critical or supercritical coal stocks on Oct 4.

At least 64 non-pithead power plants have stock of coal for less than 4 days, and 26 have coal stocks for less than 7 days. There are 6 non-pithead power plants, which are located more than 1500 km from the linked coal mines, have a stock of coal for less than five days.

Depending on the distance of the power plant (from the coal mines) and the kind of coal – pithead or non-pithead – it uses, a comfortable stock would last for 15-30 days. The stock is considered critical if it is likely to last for 7 days or less, and super critical if it is for 4 days or less.

The ministry of power in a statement on Tuesday said that the average stock of coal in power plants was for about four days on October 3, 2021.

An official from a public sector power company told TNIE that the shortage of coal is due to an unexpected rise in demand for electricity after March 2021. "For the last two years, we had not seen any significant rise in power demand, but after March this year, electricity demand rose significantly catching many power companies off guard," said the official.

According to the ministry of power, the demand for power has been increasing from August 2021 onwards. In August, the power consumption was 124 Billion Unit (BU) whereas the consumption in August 2019 (before the Covid) was 106 BU, an increase of 18-20%.

The increasing trend is persisting. The demand on Oct 4, 2021 was 1,74,000 MW, 15000 MW more than that on the same day a year ago.

Meanwhile, the Ministry of Coal has allowed sale of coal or lignite, on payment of additional amount, by the lessee of a captive mine up to 50% of the total coal or lignite produced in a financial year.

According to the coal ministry, this move would pave the way for additional availability of coal, thus easing the pressure on power plants.

DoT mulls withdrawing cases against telcos involving disputes of ₹40,000 cr

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN what may come as a big relief for struggling telecom players, the government is considering withdrawing legal cases related to the controversial one time spectrum charge (OTSC), involving disputes of about ₹40,000 crore. The department of telecom (DoT) in an affidavit before the Supreme Court cited financial stress of the sector as the primary reason to take this step.

"The central government is desirous of reviewing and/or re-considering its decision to proceed with the present proceedings of appeal. It is submitted that considering the nature of issue involved, this decision will have to be taken after the scrutiny at various levels which may consume some reasonable time," the affidavit dated October 4 said.

The DoT has asked the top court for three weeks' time to enable the central government to take an informed decision whether to proceed with the present appeal or not. It requested that the case be adjourned for a period of four weeks. DoT said the decision was taken to promote public interest, protect government revenue and more particularly encourage competition amongst telecom operators by preventing a situation where viability of some of the service providers becomes unsustainable resulting in monopolistic situations and other adverse impact on the economy.

According to the DoT, Airtel's OTSC liability comes in at ₹8,414 crore, while Vodafone idea's stands at ₹4,390 crore. If the case is withdrawn, this would be the second big relief for the two players who are still staring at cumulative adjusted gross revenue AGR dues to the tune of ₹76,000 crore.

The government on Sept 15 had announced relief for telecom operators by giving them more time to pay dues and interest on penalties in the form of equities. Meanwhile, shares of Airtel and Vodafone Idea rallied 3.26% and 7% each intraday, respectively.

Seeks three weeks' time from Supreme Court

The Department of Telecom has asked the Supreme Court for three weeks' time to enable the central government to take an informed decision whether to proceed with the present appeal or not. It requested that the case be adjourned for four weeks.

Services industry expands for second month in a row on more hiring in Sept

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA'S services industry expanded for a second straight month in September, albeit at a slower pace, however improved domestic demand and easing Covid-19 restrictions pushed firms to hire more employees for the first time in last 12 months.

The Services Purchasing Managers' Index eased to 55.2 in September from August's 18-month high of 56.7. In PMI parlance, a print above 50 means expansion, while a score below 50 denotes contraction. While that indicated improved domestic demand, international demand remained subdued and has now contracted for 19 months in a row, the longest streak since the sub-index started in September 2014.

"Indian companies continued to benefit from a recovery in demand as the pandemic receded further and restrictions were lifted," said Pollyanna De Lima, economics associate director at IHS Markit.

New jobs were created in the service sector, breaking the nine-month sequence of layoffs. However, the rate was fractional as firms handled the increased demand with the existing workforce while also running down backlogs of work.

"There was another decline in outstanding business. This implies that companies still have spare capacity to accommodate for rising sales and hint that the recovery in employment is by no means guaranteed to be continued." added De Lima.

Petrol, diesel prices surge to new highs on fresh hike

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FUEL prices were again increased on Tuesday after a pause of few days. Petrol prices were hiked between 22 and 29 paise per litre and diesel between 28 and 32 paise per litre on October 5 across India.

While petrol prices have gone up for the sixth time since September 28, diesel was up for the ninth time since September 24 on Tuesday. Due to the fresh hike, prices have touched new highs. One litre of petrol in Delhi was retailed at ₹102.64 and in Mumbai it is sold at ₹108.67 on Tuesday. Diesel rates touched a record high of ₹91.07 in Delhi and ₹98.80 in Mumbai.

In Kolkata, petrol was available at ₹103.36 and diesel at ₹94.17 per litre and in Chennai one was paying ₹100.23 for one litre of petrol and ₹95.59 for one litre of diesel on Tuesday.

The fresh rise in daily fuel prices is attributed to global oil prices finding themselves at a three-year high. "The basket of crude oil that India buys has jumped to a near three-year high of $76.71 per barrel. International prices of petrol, against which local rates are benchmarked, have risen from $85.10 per barrel to $87.11 in just one day while diesel has gone up from $85.95 a barrel to $87.27," said petroleum secretary Tarun Kapoor.

However, high retail prices for fuels are often attributed to enormous excise duty levied on petrol and diesel. In Delhi, central levies account for 32.5% of petrol's price, and state taxes (VAT) account for 23.07% price.

WTO raises global trade volume forecast to 11%

New Delhi: The World Trade Organization (WTO) has projected that the global merchandise trade volume will grow 10.8% this year, higher than 8% estimated in March. Growth should moderate as merchandise trade approaches its pre-pandemic long-run trend and supply-side issues such as semiconductor scarcity and port backlogs may strain supply chains and weigh on trade in particular areas, the WTO said.

Zoomcar sets up office in San Francisco

New Delhi: Car sharing marketplace Zoomcar on Tuesday said it has opened an office in San Francisco ahead of its US listing next year. The new office in the United States will further bolster the company's push to create a global car-sharing platform and prepare the company for its broader global marketplace, a statement said. Zoomcar has expanded to Southeast Asia and the Middle East.

AIRTEL TESTS 5G; CAN GO LIVE IN 2 QUARTERS OF SPECTRUM AUCTION

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PRIVATE telecom operator Bharti Airtel on Tuesday announced conducting India's first 5G network demonstration in a rural geography and said that 5G networks can go live within two quarters of spectrum auction. The auction is expected to take place between January and March next year.

"A quarter or two quarters from that, we would start seeing 5G networks going live in India," said Randeep Sekhon, chief technology officer of Bharti Airtel. He added, "In one year's time, we should see large portions of India, especially where demand is high, being covered."

Telecom Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw had last month said that the much delayed 5G spectrum auctions will most probably be held in February 2022, and the government may even try for a January timeline. The government currently is waiting for Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI) views on reserve price, block size, quantum of spectrum and other modalities for spectrum across multiple bands. According to industry sources, a delay in getting TRAI's response might push spectrum auction to financial year 2023.

Airtel's rural 5G trial took place in Bhaipur Bramanan village on the outskirts of Delhi/NCR using 5G trial spectrum allocated to Airtel by the Department of Telecom.

The highlight of the trial, which was done in partnership with Swedish telecom gear maker Ericsson, was the demonstration of over 200 Mbps throughput on 3GPP-compliant 5G FWA device at distance of over 10 km from the site, said Airtel. This translated into an inter-site (between two 5G sites) coverage of approximately 20 kms, thus offering the ability to provide high-speed broadband coverage even in the remotest of geographies.

As part of the trial, even a commercially available 3GPP-based 5G smartphone was able to connect to the 5G test network and record 100+ Mbps speeds at a distance of over 10 km from the site.

BBB can't select directors, GMs of PSU insurers: HC

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Delhi High Court on Monday said that the Banks Board Bureau (BBB) cannot select the general manager and directors of public sector general insurers as it is not a competent body.

The ruling came after a case was filed by the National Insurance Company Ltd General Manager Ravi who complained that people junior to him were selected by the BBB for the position of director in the public sector general insurers twice - in August 2020 and May 2021.

Hearing the case, the court held that circulars enabling BBB to select the GM and directors of government-owned general insurers are not legally valid.

It also ordered that the appointments made pursuant to the selections of general manager and directors of public sector general insurers are liable to be set aside.

"Consequently, the impugned selections could not have been undertaken by the BBB. The appointments made pursuant to the impugned selections of General Manager and Directors of PSICs (public sector insurance companies) are liable to be set aside. It is ordered accordingly," it declared.

The Banks Board Bureau is mandated to select and appoint board members for various financial institutions in public sector.

Sam Curran ruled out of T20 WC after back injury

All-rounder Sam Curran has been ruled out of the ICC T20 World Cup with a lower back injury, which he sustained during an IPL game for Chennai Super Kings, the England & Wales Cricket Board said on Tuesday. He will fly back to the UK in the next couple of days and will have further scans and a full review by the ECB's medical team.

HI withdraws teams from Birmingham CWG

Federation prioritises Asian Games, an Olympic qualifier, as reason for pulling out; also mentions UK's 'discriminatory' vaccination guidelines

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Chennai

Indian men's hockey team will now be able to fully focus on the Asian Games

LESS than three hours after the Sports Authority of India (SAI) put out a release saying that the men's hockey team 'is likely to participate' in next year's Commonwealth Games, Hockey India withdrew both its teams from the tournament. The move, though, does not come as a surprise. HI had already made some noises with respect to withdrawing both its teams from the tournament because of its proximity to the Asian Games as well as the World Cup for the women's team.

However, there is also an element of tit for tat considering the England junior men's team withdrew from the junior World Cup on Monday. And 'discriminatory' quarantine rules for Indian nationals landing in the UK even after getting two jabs of vaccine.

With the Asian Games doubling up as a continental Olympic qualifier, HI have decided to prioritise it over the Commonwealth Games. While the CWG runs from July 28 - August 8, the Asian Games begins from September 10. With the turnaround time being short, HI wants to keep both its teams fresh. As far as the women's team is concerned, they finish the World Cup only on July 17 provided they reach the final (they haven't yet qualified but that's considered to be a formality at this stage).

This much was addressed in a letter sent by HI president, Gyanendro Ningombam, to IOA president, Narendra Batra. "There is only a 32-day window between the conclusion of the CWG and the start of the Asian Games. You will also appreciate the Asian Games is the continental qualification event for the 2024 Paris Olympic Games."

Coming back to the tit-for-tat element, the letter clearly says, "With reference to the ongoing global Covid-19 pandemic, we have observed over the last 18 months that England has been the worst affected country in Europe.

"It is pertinent to mention that due to the ongoing Covid-19 situation, England have issued guidelines that 10 days quarantine is required (for) Indians arrivals in England even for those who are fully vaccinated, since unfortunately the Indian vaccination are not yet recognised by the English government.

"Such discriminatory restrictions were not imposed on Indian athletes and officials during the recent Tokyo Olympic Games and this 10 days quarantine requirement for vaccinated sports persons will affect their performances. We feel these restrictions are biased against India and term it as very unfortunate." Even if there is 10 months to go for the beginning of the Games in Birmingham, and as such there is time to reconsider, it's learned that HI will be sticking to their stance of not sending either team.

What remains to be seen is will the IOA now allow other federations to also pull out of CWG, citing Covid norms like '10-day quarantine'?

Now, England opt out of Jr WC

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Chennai

THE Junior World Cup, scheduled to be held in Bhubaneswar from November 24, is fast losing sheen. On Monday, England withdrew from the tournament citing Covid-19.

"England Hockey has informed the International Hockey Federation (FIH) of its decision to unfortunately withdraw from the upcoming Men's Junior World Cup," they said on their website. "The event is due to take place in Bhubaneswar from November 24 to December 5, but with a number of Covid-related concerns in place, and with player and staff well-being in mind, it has become untenable for our team to participate. We note that on Friday the Indian government announced a mandatory ten-day quarantine for all UK nationals.

"Our decision sits alongside the recent decisions made by the Australia and New Zealand hockey federations in relation to their withdrawal from the men's/women's junior World Cups."

They are three of the leading sides in the sport and while the show will go on without them, the International Hockey Federation (FIH) may have to consider the integrity of the World Cup if more sides follow the way of Australia, New Zealand and England. For the time being, however, there are no plans to push the tournament back. As the world body is confident that all the other teams will play, there has been no need to have a discussion on those lines.

Meanwhile, the local organising committee will decide on the exact number of Covid-related measures in place after Durga Puja. The festival ends on October 15 and if there's a visible uptick in new Covid-19 cases post that, the entirety of the tournament could be out of bounds for spectators. The hope, at least for the time being, is that there could be roughly 25-35% of fans for the matches . However, that depends on the prevailing Covid-19 cases around the third week of November. There is also a decision to be taken with respect to allowing media on site.

> With a heavy heart, we have chosen to withdraw from the tournament. We are hugely empathetic to the players and coaches who will miss out on this opportunity to represent their country.
>
> Ed Barney, England Hockey performance director

Mumbai demolish RR to boost play-off hopes

MARTIN JOSEPH @Kochi

RAJASTHAN Royals had started the game above Mumbai Indians but the tables turned quickly on Tuesday. In what was a thoroughly one-sided encounter, Rajasthan finished the game with their qualification hopes dashed while the defending champions produced a statement victory as things are falling into place at the business end of the competition.

With this win, the title holders are now right on the coattails of fourth-placed Kolkata Knight Riders for that final qualification spot.

After restricting Rajasthan to a paltry 90/9, Mumbai strolled to victory in just 9.2 overs and are now in the fifth spot. Everything clicked for Rohit Sharma in what was a collective performance from his team and after Mumbai bowlers choked Rajasthan batsmen, Ishan Kishan finished things off in style.

Dropped for the previous two matches, the wicketkeeper-batsman opening in place of Quinton de Kock, returned to form with a quickfire unbeaten 50 off just 25 balls. His whirlwind knock included five boundaries and three sixes and it looked like he was playing on a different surface after the struggles of the Rajasthan batsmen.

After a promising start by Rajasthan, Mumbai took charge. In the UAE leg, the Royals' top order has been scoring a majority of their runs.

This over-reliance was exposed by the Mumbai bowlers. Rajasthan openers Yashasvi Jaiswal and Evin Lewis gave them a promising start and looked confident after Mumbai asked them to bat first. Jaiswal even smashed Jayant Yadav for 15 runs in the second over but that was a distant memory in no time. Once Nathan Coulter-Nile broke that partnership by dismissing Jaiswal, things took a turn for the worse.

Brief scores: Rajasthan Royals 90/9 in 20 ovs (N Coulter-Nile 4/14) lost to Mumbai Indians 94/2 in 8.2 ovs (Kishan 50 n.o).

IN BANGALORE COLOURS, MAXWELL LIVES UP TO EXPECTATIONS

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

145, 179, 310, 169 and 108 runs. These were Glenn Maxwell's numbers in his last five IPL seasons. Such numbers are staggering for a player who has done well in the shorter format of the game at the international level and leagues like the Big Bash. He had a thing or two to prove in the 2021 campaign, and has lived up to the expectations, scoring 407 runs for Royal Challengers Bangalore so far.

So what has really worked for Maxwell in Bangalore colours? Previously with other teams, the 32-year-old was primarily looked at as someone who can smash quickfire runs at the end. As a result, he did not have much time to settle down. He was also expected to deliver from ball one. Things have been a tad different at Bangalore as coming in at No 4 has allowed him to spend more time at the crease. That Bangalore's openers have also given him a platform to build on has also eased the pressure on Maxwell as he has the time to get his eye in and go for the shots.

In a season where AB de Villiers has't fired like he used to, Maxwell's runs in the middle-order have played a huge role in Bangalore's success this season as they reached the play-offs with two games to spare. Even a top-two finish is not beyond them, provided things go their way.

More importantly, when he has walked in to bat for Bangalore, the element of pressure is quite non-existent.

"It is more about the overs that we are trying to get our batters out there. For me, I am looking to get out there just after powerplay. If I can have that opportunity to bat a little more than 10 overs to go, then I give myself an over or two out there to get used to the conditions and give myself a platform to go. AB is a little bit later...he has the ability to hit boundaries early on in his innings, he is suited to back end and later overs, where he can cash in. Having (De Villiers) come after me and be there to finish the innings is a hell of a luxury," said Maxwell, who has scored three half-centuries in a row in his last three innings.

Maxwell has also taken it upon himself to be much more responsible. Often criticised for playing reckless shots in the past, he has been much more calculative and taken time to understand the conditions before taking charge. After getting his eye in, he has not refrained from showing his range be it against spinners or pacers.

"I know I score quickly in ODI and T20 cricket. It was more about having a solid technique at the start of my innings and making sure I take in much information before taking the first risks. With this (RCB) line-up I am afforded a little bit more time to gather information and spend more time in the middle and then when I decide to flick the switch, it is a well informed decision." It remains to be seen if he can outdo his best (552 runs in 2014) for the then Kings XI Punjab.

Physics Nobel winners found order in disorder

Physicists dealt with simple systems such as an atom; but these pioneers distilled complex forces such as climate

SCIENCE

STOCKHOLM: Three scientists won the Nobel Prize for physics on Tuesday for work that found order in seeming disorder, helping to explain and predict complex forces of nature, including expanding our understanding of climate change.

Syukuro Manabe, originally from Japan, and Klaus Hasselmann of Germany were cited for their work in "the physical modeling of Earth's climate, quantifying variability and reliably predicting global warming." The second half of the prize went to Giorgio Parisi of Italy for explaining disorder in physical systems, ranging from those as small as the insides of atoms to the planet-sized.

In the face of the challenges of climate change, Hasselmann told The Associated Press he "would rather have no global warming and no Nobel prize."

Across the Atlantic at the same time, Manabe noted in an interview that figuring out the physics behind climate change was easier than getting the world to do something about it.

All three scientists work on what are known as "complex systems," of which climate is just one example. But the prize goes to two distinct fields of study that are opposite in many ways but share the goal of making sense of what seems random and chaotic in such a way that it can be predicted.

Italian scholar and physicist Giorgio Parisi raises his glass for a toast in celebration on Tuesday | AFP

Parisi's work largely centers around tiny subatomic particles and is somewhat esoteric and academic, while the work by Manabe and Hasselmann is about large-scale global forces that shape our daily lives.

The judges said Manabe, 90, and Hasselmann, 89, "laid the foundation of our knowledge of the Earth's climate and how human actions influence it.

Starting in the 1960s, Manabe, now based at Princeton University in New Jersey, created the first climate models that forecast what would happen to the globe as carbon dioxide built up in the atmosphere. Scientists for decades had shown that carbon dioxide traps heat, but Manabe's work put specifics and prediction into that general knowledge. It allowed scientists to eventually show how climate change will worsen and how fast depending on how much carbon pollution is spewed.

About a decade later, Hasselmann, of the Max Planck Institute for Meteorology in Hamburg, Germany, helped explain why climate models can be reliable despite the seemingly chaotic nature of the weather. He also developed ways to look for specific signs of human influence on the climate.

Hasselmann said the problem with climate change is that it exists on such a large time scale that people have difficulty comprehending it.

"People tend to deny the problem until it's too late," Hasselman said.

Meanwhile, Parisi, of Sapienza University of Rome, "built a deep physical and mathematical model" that made it possible to understand complex systems in different fields.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Buried river revived

ENVIRONMENT

IN Europe, London has the Thames, Paris the Seine, Vienna and Bratislava and Budapest are all on the Danube. And then there's Brussels, which had the Senne -- until they paved over it. Now, bit by bit, the Belgian capital is starting to uncover its long-hidden waterway to eventually "return nature to the city". "It's a real paradigm shift," Benjamin Thiebaux, heading up the project for the regional environmental agency, told AFP. "We can now start thinking about no longer covering up the river and giving it back to Brussels residents," he said. The preparatory phase of the progressive unveiling of the Senne was cleaning up its waters. The small river was cemented over more 100 years ago because it had long served as a sewer.

New asteroid probe by UAE

SPACE

The United Arab Emirates has announced plans to send a probe to land on an asteroid between Mars and Jupiter to collect data on the origins of the universe, the latest project in the oil-rich federation's ambitious space program. The project targets a 2028 launch with a landing in 2033, a five-year journey in which the spacecraft will travel some 3.6 billion km. The UAE's Space Agency said it will partner with the Laboratory for Atmospheric Science and Physics at the University of Colorado on the project. It declined to immediately offer a cost for the effort. The project comes after the Emirates successfully put its Amal, or "Hope," probe in orbit around Mars in Feb. The Amal cost $200 million to build and launch.

14% of corals wiped out by climate crisis

ENVIRONMENT

PARIS: Dynamite fishing and pollution -- but mostly global warming -- wiped out 14% of the world's coral reefs from 2009 to 2018, leaving graveyards of bleached skeletons where vibrant ecosystems once thrived, according to the largest ever survey of coral health.

Hardest hit were corals in South Asia and the Pacific, around the Arabian Peninsula, and off the coast of Australia, more than 300 scientists in the Global Coral Reef Monitoring Network reported.

"Climate change is the biggest threat to the world's reefs," co-author Paul Hardisty, CEO of the Australian Institute of Marine Science, said in a statement.

Oceans absorb more than 90% of the excess heat from greenhouse gas emissions, shielding land surfaces but generating huge, long-lasting marine heatwaves that are pushing many species of corals past their limits of tolerance.

Film crew in orbit to make 1st movie in space

SPACE

WASHINGTON: A Russian actress and director on Tuesday arrived at the International Space Station (ISS) in a bid to best the United States and film the first movie in orbit.

The Russian crew is set to beat a Hollywood project that was announced last year by Mission Impossible star Tom Cruise together with NASA and Elon Musk's SpaceX.

Actress Yulia Peresild, 37, and film director Klim Shipenko, 38, took off from the Russia-leased Baikonur Cosmodrome in ex-Soviet Kazakhstan as scheduled.

But they belatedly docked at the ISS at 1222 GMT after veteran cosmonaut Anton Shkaplerov switched to manual control. "Welcome to the ISS!" Russia's space agency Roscosmos said on Twitter.

The crew travelled in a Soyuz MS-19 spaceship for a 12-day mission at the ISS to film a new movie titled "Challenge," in which a surgeon played by Peresild rushes to the space station to save a crew member who needs an urgent operation in orbit. After 12 days on the space outpost, they are set to return to Earth.

Shkaplerov and two other Russian cosmonauts aboard the ISS are said to have cameo roles in the film. The ISS crew, are set to welcome the newcomers when the hatch opens at around 1410 GMT.

Controversial tech monitors 'deviant' acts

TECHNOLOGY

MOSCOW: The Russia said it has developed software that monitors social media to help authorities prevent youngsters from harming themselves and others, but critics say this could be used to silence dissent.

The initiative comes after an 18-year-old student at Perm State University last month shot dead six people in the latest in a growing number of campus shootings.

Russia's youth affairs agency Rosmolodyozh said an NGO founded in 2018 at the behest of President Vladimir Putin has developed software that can "quickly track the spread of destructive subcultures among young people".

"The system is used to monitor the open circuit of the Russian-speaking segment of popular social networks," Rosmolodyozh told AFP.

Rosmolodyozh added that the Centre for the Study and Network Monitoring of the Youth Environment had also developed a separate system called "Angel.Destruktiv" to monitor internet and telecom.

Booster for 1-shot J&J vaccine

MEDICINE

Johnson & Johnson asked the Food and Drug Administration on Tuesday to allow extra shots of its COVID-19 vaccine as the US government moves toward expanding its booster campaign to millions more vaccinated people. J&J said it filed a request with the FDA to authorize boosters for people 18 and older who previously received the company's one-shot vaccine. While the company said it submitted data on several different booster intervals, ranging from two to six months, it did not formally recommend one to regulators. Last month, the FDA authorised booster shots of Pfizer's vaccine for older Americans and other at-risk groups.

Pegasus developer supports global spyware regulation

TECHNOLOGY-

PARIS: The Israeli company at the heart of the Pegasus surveillance scandal on Tuesday said it would support international regulation to prevent repressive governments from abusing powerful spyware like its own.

In a letter to the United Nations, seen by AFP, the NSO Group expressed "strong support for the creation of an international legal framework" to govern technology that allows for highly invasive snooping on people's mobile phones.

NSO was engulfed in controversy in July over reports that tens of thousands of human rights activists, journalists, politicians and business executives worldwide were listed as potential targets of its Pegasus software.

Smartphones infected with Pegasus are essentially turned into pocket spying devices, allowing the user to read the target's messages, look through their photos, track their location and even turn on their camera without them knowing.

NSO said in the letter that it took the allegations made by media outlets "extremely seriously" and that it had launched an immediate probe after the scandal blew up in July. NSO has faced a torrent of criticism over the use of its software.

URBANISATION IMPACT

India home to half of all people vulnerable to extreme heat

CLIMATE CHANGE

NEW YORK: Rapid population growth and global warming are increasing exposure to extreme heat in cities, aggravating health problems and making moving to urban areas less beneficial for the world's poor, according to a new study.

More than half of the people who faced the who faced the life-threatening heat stress lived in India, Bloomberg reported.

The rise is affecting nearly a quarter of the world's population, said the report published in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences.

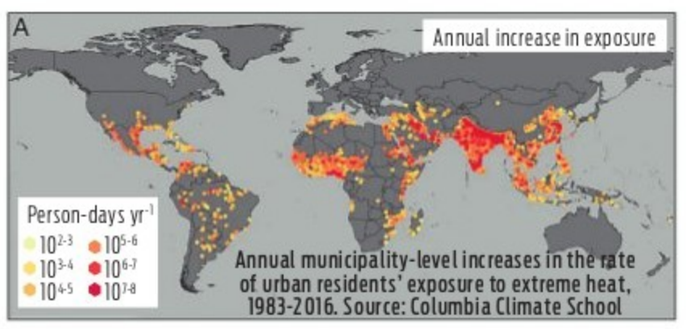
In recent decades, hundreds of millions of people have moved from rural areas to cities where temperatures are generally higher because of surfaces such as asphalt which trap heat and a lack of vegetation.

Scientists studied the maximum daily heat and humidity in more than 13,000 cities from 1983 to 2016.

Using the so-called "wet-bulb globe temperature" scale, a measure that takes into account heat and humidity, they defined extreme heat as 30 degrees Celsius (86 degrees Fahrenheit).

The researchers then compared weather data with statistics on the cities' population over the same 33-year period.

They calculated the number of days of extreme heat in a particular year by the population of the city that year to come up with a definition called person-days.



The authors found that the number of person-days in which city dwellers were exposed went from 40 billion per year in 1983 to 119 billion in 2016.

Cascade Tuholske at Columbia University's Earth Institute, a lead author of the study, said the rise "increases morbidity and mortality."

"It impacts people's ability to work, and results in lower economic output. It exacerbates pre-existing health conditions," he said in a statement.

Population growth accounted for two-thirds of the exposure spike, with actual warming temperatures contributing a third, although proportions varied from city to city, they wrote.

Bangladesh's capital Dhaka was the worst-affected city, seeing an increase of 575 million person-days of extreme heat over the study period. That was largely attributable to its rapid population growth.

The lockdown brought in several restrictions for pubs, including curbs on the sale of draught beer. Now, after a long hiatus, pub owners are heaving a sigh of relief that they can serve the drink on tap

ANILA KURIAN

WHILE the hospitality industry has struggled with several restrictions owing to the pandemic, there's some reason to rejoice now. Pub owners in the city are finally heaving a sigh of relief after the sale and service of draught beer was granted on Monday. After the second lockdown in May, pubs were only allowed to sell bottled or IMFL drinks despite having the RVB (Resale Vending of Beer) which permits the sale of beer on tap.

Chethan Hegde, owner of 1522 The Pub in Malleswaram, says, "There's been a really good buzz since Monday. The footfall has definitely increased. We got a week's heads-up to sell the kegs and we're happy that it's finally happening." He points out that they lost many customers over the last few months as they weren't allowed to sell beer on tap. "Bengalureans love their fresh beers. When we told customers that we couldn't serve fresh beer, many of them would just go to nearby microbreweries instead," Hegde adds.

Known for their craft beer, the team of Geist is also thrilled to be serving beer on tap now. Geetanjali Chitnis, head of brand and communications, says, "Supply of draught beer to RVB licence holders was stopped on April 20 in the light of the second wave. Over the last two months, representatives of draught beer and the hospitality industry came together to work directly with government authorities to identify a timeline for re-opening channels of supply." Now, many of the existing restaurants, pubs and club partners have reached out to them to place orders for draught beer kegs, supply of which they resumed on Monday.

Popular watering hole Watson's relied heavily on selling beer on tap. Like most pub owners, they too suffered losses due to the restriction. Owner Amit Roy says, "It never really made sense as to why it was stopped in the first place, especially when we were allowed to sell bottled beer. In addition, with the lockdown, there was more bottled consumption in the last couple of months and we faced some supply issues as well — we hadn't anticipated that the wait would be this long."

In order to ensure the government heard the pleas, the pub owners worked with the National Restaurant Association of India (NRAI) for months to make this happen. At the various Social outlets, they are waiting for their beer kegs to arrive so they can start serving on tap too and hope to resume service by next week. Ranveer Sabhani, business head — south, Impresario Handmade Restaurants, says, "It was tough to not know how long this will take and we ended up missing a good clientele as we don't always stock bottled beer. We're looking forward to seeing how this will change things for the industry once again."

WALKING into ITC Windsor in the evenings, before the pandemic, always meant a sweet welcome with the sound of the accordion wafting from all corners. Perched on the first floor with an aerial view of the space, MB Prakash (72), one of the few accordions in the country, would often play a varied set of tunes.

Now, documentary filmmaker Adithyaa Sadashiv has collaborated with classical harmonium player Ravindra Katoti to make a 35-minute film, Whispering Melodies, which chronicles Prakash's journey. It is now available on YouTube. Sadashiv says, "I was introduced to Prakash sir by Katoti in July and we took about two months to complete the film. He's an inspiration to many and I felt that it was a story worth telling the world."

Katoti, who has known Prakash for 15 years, has collaborated with him in the past. Having performed on stage together and even released an album in 2007. "He does so much to ensure that the accordion culture still survives," Katoti says.

Prakash, a self-taught musician, has been playing at the hotel for 15 years and played till the day before the country-wide lockdown was announced in March 2020. His tryst with the instrument began way back in college when he would also play the harmonica which he had to give up due to health issues. "That's when my father encouraged me to learn the accordion and there's been no looking back since," says Prakash, adding, "During my college days in the '70s, we had to return home by 7 pm. Houses and yards were large and neighbours used to play instruments in the evening. With windows open, melodies were loud and clear...That's what led me to becoming a musician."

Since there was no platform like YouTube to learn from, he would borrow books from music stores to learn the notes. Till the pandemic, he was part of a small band called The Tremolos. "We used to hang out quite often and play together. But since the pandemic, everyone has taken a break," Prakash adds.

Adding to his list of accomplishments, Prakash also has the distinction of being the first Indian accordionist to participate by invitation as a jury member at the Trophee Mondial de L'Accordeon, a premiere international Accordion Championship held in France. In 2020, he led a team of jurors as the head juror of the World Category during the Premio Internazionale della Fisarmonica di Castelfidardo, Italia. Since then he has been a mainstay as a juror at international music competitions and festivals.

Whispering Melodies captures it all. "Foreigners, many of whom enjoyed western music, used to stop by at the hotel and kids would dance around. Some of them even offered to bring drinks for me because they enjoyed my work," Prakash chuckles.

'EVEN IF I HAVE A DAY OFF, I COME RUNNING BACK TO B'LURU'

...says Bollywood actor Kriti Kharbanda, who was in the city recently, recalling her childhood days in namma ooru

DONNA EVA

AMIDST a light evening drizzle, actor Kriti Kharbanda joins a group of people huddled outside Maeva, an artisanal brand that has just launched its first retail store in Indiranagar. Sporting an orange jumpsuit, the actor keenly takes a look at the various displays and keepsakes placed in the store, especially the vanilla pound cake scented products. "You know in Bangalore, you get these vanilla pound cakes that Mummy brings home and it just smells like a bakery. It brings back a lot of memories from my childhood," says the Bollywood actor, who made her acting debut with the Telugu film Boni in 2009. She subsequently went on to star in films such as the Kannada film Super Ranga, for which she won a SIIMA Award, the Telugu film Bruce Lee: The Fighter and, most recently, 14 Phere in July this year.

Born in New Delhi, Kharbanda moved to Bengaluru in the '90s with her family. Having spent her childhood here, she says, "Indiranagar is home." The actor also did her schooling at Baldwin Girls' High School and Bishop Cotton Girls' School, citing Richmond Town as another one of her favourite places in Bengaluru thanks to spending much of her childhood in the area.

Though her parents continue to live here, the actor relocated to Mumbai, where she currently lives. It's been a tough year with both her parents testing positive for Covid. "But Bengaluru has been very good, you have to get tested to step in, so I feel a little happier that my parents are here. I feel like they're in a surrounding that's going to take care of them."

Kharbanda visited the city in August for the first time since the lockdown. "Again for an event, but I met my parents for the first time in a year, seven months and 23 days to be precise," she says. She laughs, adding, "And if I have one day off I come running back to Bengaluru."

A visit to the city is incomplete without dropping into Sweet Chariot, where she relishes their chicken lasagna and chocolate mousse cake. Talking about the close proximity of the bakery to her schools, she says, "That used to be my favourite joint, the most affordable one we had for school students," she laughs, adding that the Lavelle Road Café Coffee Day was another one of her frequent hangout spots alongside Shiv Sagar and Commercial Street. "I've always been a foodie, I love food of every kind, for me Donne biryani is a favourite. So every time I come, that's always something that comes home with me, I have to bring Donne biryani home," she says.

On whether she noticed anything different in Bengaluru from before the lockdown, she says it definitely feels more greener. "It feels like the Garden City again and that is something I totally enjoy," she says, adding, "More than anything else, people have, all over our country, changed quite a bit. We've become warmer, nicer people because suddenly life has become so uncertain."

CATUR SVANASANA

(DOLPHIN POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'catur' means 'chaturanga', 'svana' means dog and 'asana' means pose. This pose is considered as an easy one to strengthen the arms in order to prepare for certain advanced level poses. It is considered as a variation of Downward Facing Dog Pose with the forearms placed on the floor. Dolphin Pose is considered a base pose as dolphin pose variations can be derived from this pose. It helps boost energy in the body and hence can be included in flow yoga sequences. You will have this exercise stressful for those who have suffered from wrist pain or carpal tunnel syndrome, not as you expected.

STEPS

- Start by laying on the floor on all fours. Align your knees with your hips, while your forearms are on the mat.
- Make sure your wrists are under your shoulders, and bring your palms together. Take a deep breath and curl your toes. Exhale, lift your knees up.
- At first, focus on stretching the tailbone.
- Next, straighten your legs and form an inverted V that falls to the floor.
- Engage your shoulder blades by bringing them towards your lower back.
- Keep your head between your biceps. Straighten your knees if you can, but do not let your upper back become bulged.
- Stretch your tailbone away from your abdomen, and lift the top of your chest bone away from the ground.
- Hold the pose for 30 and 60 seconds.

BENEFITS

- This pose improves your memory consumption.
- Get relief from insomnia, fatigue, and also mild depression.
- Stress and anxiety will not be things to disturb you.
- Digestion will be improved a great deal.
- Back pain, sinusitis, flat feet, discomfort from menstruation, and even asthma will be under control.
- It prevents suffering from osteoporosis.

LIMITATIONS

- If you are suffering from pain in the arms, shoulder, neck or back or have injuries, avoid this asana.
- People who have high blood pressure or eye infections should avoid this.
- Those who have any health condition should get advice from a yoga expert before practising this asana.

'Amma's adai is comfort food'

Actor Vidya Balan with her mother Saraswathy Balan

MY sister, Priya, and I grew up with south Indian food cooked at home by Amma. Unlike many mothers, Amma neither had a great liking for cooking nor did she have a bank of recipes handed to her by her own mom. My grandma passed away when Amma was very young, and thus, her only connection with cooking was seeing the family prepare the meals. But to me, good food is all about Amma's cooking.

Everybody in our family has a sweet tooth. This inevitably meant that when we want to celebrate anything special at home, the first thing we think of is the dessert. During my childhood, the highlight of Sunday lunch would be Amma's special treat for us, vella payar, a delicious dessert made by simply cooking moong or red eyed beans with jaggery and coconut till it all came together into a glorious mass. On the days Amma did not make this, Appa would step in with his signature pazham nurukku, steamed yellow bananas cooked in jaggery syrup and ghee, a dish with which he could have my sister and I eating out of his hands. He recently visited his nephews in the US and had everyone licking their fingers in delight when he prepared this dish for them.

I have always had a soft corner for food. I remember, as a kid, the first thing I would do on waking up was rush to the kitchen to select the fruit I would eat as soon as I had brushed my teeth! I waited for my birthday so that Amma would pamper me with my favourite semiya payasam. For the auspicious day of Vishu, she made chakka payasam, a delectable dessert that most Kerala homes make during jackfruit season, with homemade jackfruit preserve, jaggery and dollops of ghee.

On Onam, Vishu and other festivals, she also cooked the traditional staples — her avial and mor kootan (Kerala-style kadhi made with curd and coconut) are incomparable, as is her pachadi.

Even years after marriage and setting up home, I have not bothered to train my cooks to prepare Amma's dishes. Palakkad Iyer cooking is very distinct, and I think only years of practice can make it perfect. I am lucky that my parents stay very close to my house and on days that I am not shooting or occupied with work, I still get to eat all my Amma's staples. In fact, I call in advance and tell her to keep my favourite food ready. What I love about her kitchen is that there is always idli-dosa batter ready in the fridge waiting to be relished with her fiery molagapodi. I can make a meal out of molagapodi alone and can eat it in so many ways, even just sprinkled on steaming hot rice with ghee. I also look forward to relishing her sambar made with pearl onions even though it is very rarely prepared these days because peeling them is tedious.

I have a peculiar habit when it comes to food: I can make a meal out of just dry subzi; I don't need roti, rice, bread or even dal to complete a meal. Growing up, Amma would sometimes cook for both meals together when she had to go out for chores and did not have time to cook in the evening. To the great annoyance of my sister, I would come home from school and polish off the entire subzi in just one sitting.

In fact, Amma's homemade pav bhaji without the pav is instant comfort food for me as is her adai — thick pancakes made with a variety of lentils, fiery whole red chillies and curry leaves. This dish is not just tasty, but full of nutrition.

The world has discovered multigrain food just now, but we Malayalis have been eating multigrain dishes forever!

Palakkad Iyers have a weakness for everything puli or tart and for vellam or jaggery. We use jaggery in everything from kozhukattai—steamed rice balls filled with a mixture of jaggery and grated coconut—payasam and avil or sweetened beaten rice. I remember, back in my childhood, when there was nothing sweet to eat after lunch, Dad would break a coconut and we would enjoy slices of it with jaggery.

FLYLEAF

VR Ferose

The author is a technologist based in Silicon Valley who is gently mad about books

JOHANNES Gutenberg, born in the city of Mainz, Germany is considered one of the most influential figures of the last millennium. Ironically, he is also one of the great mysteries of history. Not much is known about his personal life — when he was born, whether he married or had children, where he is buried or even what he looked like. His major work, the Gutenberg Bible (also known as the 42-line Bible), was the first printed version of the Bible.

Most of the information about Gutenberg comes from legal and financial papers, and these indicate that the printing of his Bibles was a particularly tumultuous affair; he was driven to financial ruin by a lawsuit filed by his business partner Johann Fust. It's unlikely that he ever turned a profit off his most famous work. I have been fortunate to have visited the Gutenberg Museum in Mainz, a must for anyone interested in books and the printing world. Two original Gutenberg Bibles (kept inside a bulletproof room) are among the Museum's most important treasures.

By studying the size of Gutenberg's paper supply, historians have estimated that he produced around 180 copies of his Bible. Of these, only 45 are known to exist today (of which 12 are in America). Not surprisingly, there are numerous books about these surviving Bibles. The Lost Gutenberg by Margaret Leslie Davis tracks the journey of one copy as it passed through several hands over five centuries to arrive at a Tokyo steel vault. Gutenberg's Apprentice by Alix Christie places Gutenberg's former assistant Peter Schoeffer at the centre and takes us through the fraught journey of the printing of the Bibles.

I have bought a facsimile copy of the 1454 Bible — the closest ever to the original. I also managed to acquire a mounted and framed original leaf from 1478 printed in two colours by Nider, a contemporary of Gutenberg. Another of my possessions is a facsimile of a leaf from a Gutenberg Bible — not a mere print, but a leaf reconstructed with type in Germany in the 1950s.

How did Gutenberg arrive at the idea of not writing out a book by hand but to mechanically reproduce it? Actually, a form of printing did exist before Gutenberg! From as early as the 12th or 13th century, China (which invented paper) and Korea were using inked letters carved on wooden blocks impressed on to paper. This early printing process eventually found its way to Europe by the late 14th century, and some documents, though not books, were being produced this way.

One wonders how Gutenberg, a goldsmith, hit upon the idea of the next step — using movable type with individual pieces of metal instead of wooden blocks that can each only accommodate a few lines of text. While Gutenberg pioneered the technology of printing, the printers who came after him — Nider, Anton Koberger, Nikolai Jessen, Aldus and Erhard Ratdolt — improved on and finally perfected it. I have managed to get an original leaf from some of these great printers.

Schoeffer partnered with his father-in-law Fust to refine the process and print many beautiful books, including the Mainz Psalter of 1457, which is the first book to have a colophon — the printing date and printer's emblem often accompanied by a brief statement.

It is amazing that even after 550 years Gutenberg evokes such interest in researchers and technologists alike.

Probably because it has had the greatest impact on mankind, or simply because printing is considered the most groundbreaking invention since the wheel!

ROLE OF GANDHI IN OUR MODERN LIVES

LAST week gave me an opportunity to ponder over the role of Mahatma Gandhi in our modern lives. For decades, Mahatma Gandhi could be found all over government offices, schools and police stations. NCERT text books all began with a note called Gandhiji's talisman. Films and TV shows always had a portrait of Gandhi in the room of a policeman or politician. Gandhi's picture could also be found on postage stamps, currency notes, and even on train tickets. But the once ubiquitous father of our nation today struggles to compete for our attention and consciousness along with film stars, cricketers and advertisements for online sales.

Gandhi has been removed from currency notes — the one place you could meet him everyday. Gandhi was also the most popular Gujarati at one time, but has been replaced by prime minister Modi and Jasprit Bumrah. For corporate offices, Gandhi Jayanti is just another holiday, and managers try to sneakily send in assignments on October 1. For youngsters, October 2 is a dry day. Some of Gandhi's ideas can be found in khadi and ethnic clothing in high-fashion stores. The youth today is more familiar with MGK — Machine Gun Kelly — rather than MKG — Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi. But these are all examples of imagery. What about Gandhi's ideals? It is a case of 'out of sight, out of mind?'

The picture is quite dismal, I'm afraid. Peaceful protests are not in vogue anymore — every protest is marred by violence and political mud-slinging. When we get slapped on one cheek, to show the other is seen as a weakness today. Leaders are expected to reply and respond quicker, and with greater force. The history we were taught in our schools — in which Gandhi featured in a big way — is being questioned and revised.

Gandhi's advice to 'See no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil' doesn't hold much weight in today's social media age. If anything, the quote has been modified to 'See what's viral, speak what's woke, hear the opinion you subscribe to'.

In the business world, Gandhi's call for swadeshi products has made a comeback with the 'Make in India' movement. While the phrase has been around since the launch of the initiative in 2014, we are yet to see any direct result of the initiative. Our phones are Chinese, our softwares are American, and our TV shows are Korean.

It's not hard to see that Gandhi's relevance in our lives has diminished to a large extent. In such a scenario, there is still one bastion where Gandhi rules — memes and humour. Every Gandhi Jayanti, memes of Gandhi begin to appear. They are usually those of an everyday line, attributed to Gandhi with his image next to it.

Gandhi has had many contributions to the world. But one of his greatest contributions to India is still unheralded — the contribution to India's sense of humour. Gandhi can be found in India's jokes. Every Indian's first 'non-veg' joke featured the Mahatma. I am glad that at least that element of Gandhi has been retained by Indians. Joking about the prime minister could land you in jail, but a joke on Gandhi is considered harmless.

As a humour writer and stand up comedian, I'm glad Gandhi jokes are still not frowned upon in an age where sharing a cartoon could mean a jail stint. It is the one space where Gandhi is still holding a peaceful protest against draconian politicians. In that sense, it won't be wrong to revisit the epithet 'father of the nation'. If anything, Mahatma Gandhi could be called the 'friendly uncle of the nation'.

Tagaru actor and director are likely to team up for a hattrick outing

SHIVARAJKUMAR AND SURI IN TALKS FOR A FILM

A SHARADHAA

RUMOURS about Shivarajkumar and director Suri uniting for another project have been doing the rounds for quite some time now. The actor-director combination delivered a success with Tagaru. The latest development is that the Century Star and the Duniya director are currently in talks for a film.

Confirming this news, Shivanna says, "Suri is currently busy with Bad Manners, and we will be soon meeting to have a discussion. Both my films with Suri — Kaddipudi and Tagaru — did magic on the silver screen. I believe that Suri always looks forward to doing quite a different subject with me. He brings in that raw flavour in his film's presentation, and I feel our next project will only be bigger and better. Having said that, we are at a very initial stage of discussion."

Meanwhile, Shivanna's next release will be Bhajarangi 2. Directed by Harsha, and made under Jayanna Films, the action commercial entertainer is slated to release on October 29. He is also juggling between his two projects — Vijay Milton's Bairagee and Ram Dhulipudi's Nee Siguvaregu. There is also Harsha's next, Vedha, on the cards. Although this project will mark the fourth collaboration between Harsha and Shivanna, this will be the first film to be backed by the actor's home banner, Geetha Pictures. This apart, Shivanna will also be working in Lohith H's Sathya Mangala, and Rishab Shetty's next.

IT is going to be a working birthday for actor Dhruva Sarja, who will be spending his special day on the sets of Martin. The Action Prince who posted a video message on his various social media accounts has said that he will not be celebrating his birthday, and requested his fans, whom he addresses as VIPs, not to gather in front of his house. In addition, he gave an update about his upcoming film. Meanwhile, team Martin released a special poster on October 6 to mark the occasion of the actor's birthday.

The shooting for the action commercial drama directed by AP Arjun began in the month of August, and since then Dhruva Sarja has been working continuously without a break. Dhruva has promised himself and his fans that he'd complete the film by December 20, and seems to be right on course. While the makers began with filming action sequences choreographed by Ram-Lakshman, they then moved on to film the stunt scene designed by Ravi Varma. The team will next move to Vishakhapatnam to film another major action sequence, which will be choreographed by Ganesh Master.

This will be the second film between Dhruva and Arjun after Addhuri, and has raised expectations. Backed by Uday K Mehta, Martin will be made in Kannada, and released in Tamil, Telugu, Malayalam, and Hindi. With a screenplay written by Arun Balaji and Swamiji, Martin has Satya Hegde handling the cinematography and music composed by Mani Sharma.

He will also be part of Jaggu Dada director Raghavendra Hegde's next project, which will be a military subject inspired by real-life incidents. This apart, Dhruva has also a film with Bhajarangi 2 director A Harsha.

In a previous interview with Cinema Express, Amol had spoken about his role in Sardar Udham. "I could never have imagined someone casting me as Bhagat Singh. 'Dhruv and Kavya make people want to fall in love'

CE FEATURES

The fourth and final season of Little Things drops on Netflix on October 15. Mithila Palkar, the show's star feels that audiences over the years have connected to the show mainly due to the relatability of Kavya and Dhruv's relationship.

Reflecting on the show's popularity, Mithila says, "I feel like there's the relatability in Dhruv and Kavya's relationship. They're not trying to paint any kind of a false picture of everything being hunky-dory and beautiful. There have been thunderstorms, in a sense, in the relationship. There have been ups and downs and in spite of all of those things, that relationship never decided to come to a standstill." The new season finds the couple pondering marriage and going on new adventures. Mithila traces the duo's longevity to their willingness to make it work. "No matter what… they said, 'we're meant to be together, we belong together and we'll make sure that we figure it out together.' And I think that gives a sense of hope even to a lot of single people," Mithila said.

Keira Knightley to lead Boston Strangler

ACTOR Keira Knightley is set to play the lead in the upcoming drama Boston Strangler for 20th Century Studios.

Matt Ruskin of Crown Heights fame will write and direct the feature film, which will be produced by veteran filmmaker Ridley Scott along with Kevin Walsh through their Scott Free banner, reported Deadline.
